Commemorating the centenary of the First World War

WE WILL REMEMBER THEM

(See Pages 20 to 23)

First World War commemoration: A NATION REMEMBERS

ONE hundred years ago next week, Great Britain was plunged into the maelstrom of the First World War.

The horrors of the conflict and its dreadful toll on both sides has its echoes today, through family recollections and memorabilia passed down the generations, and the solemn pilgrimages made by many people, old and young, to World War One battlefields.

This week, on pages 20, 21, 22 and 23, The Glamorgan GEM reflects on the causes of the First World War, recounts some heartrending stories of the conflict, and reports on how local people plan to commemorate a war that was supposed to end all wars.

Our thanks to all who contributed and we will continue to welcome your contributions in the weeks ahead.

Father's nightmare after a spider bite

REPORT by TIM CHAPMAN

A FATHER of three from Barry has told of his nightmare experience after he was bitten by a spider – which led to a gaping wound, two operations, and the fear that his foot might be amputated.

Jason Butler, aged 41, was out in his shed at the beginning of July when he suffered the bite.

"I had to sort some stuff out in the shed and as I moved a box, four or five spiders ran out – like money spiders on steroids.

"They were on the ground and I wasn't worried because I'm not frightened of spiders.

"One bit me on the ankle. I felt the pinch, grabbed it and pulled it off. It was a three-pronged bite.

"At the time it wasn't painful, just a gentle sting."

What Jason couldn't have imagined was the anguish that would follow.

When he sat down for tea, it started itching and he put Savlon on it.

He and his wife Sonia became concerned as the redness grew. Visits to the doctor's followed and antibiotics prescribed – but the redness got worse and the ankle swelled further.

A second course of antibiotics appeared to stem the swelling, but then it returned.

"It was stinging – as if someone was giving me injections. It was aggravating and disturbing."

Sonia said: "At one stage the ankle had swelled to three times the normal size, and his leg was swollen up to the knee."

Eventually, his family insisted he go to the University Hospital of Wales.

Jason said: "I had to wait eight hours to be seen and then they told me I had to stay in for an operation, which took place two days later.

"The surgeon opened it out to drain fluid and the infection. They weren't happy and two days later, I had to have it done again."

Jason was told that if he hadn't gone up to the hospital, he could have been facing amputation of his foot.

"Everybody is shocked – even the district nurses."

"I went up to the hospital again for treatment last Friday and a girl was in there with a badly swollen leg from a spider bite."

Firemen rescue two from car

TWO people were rescued from a car in Barry, after it crashed through railings and ended up on the embankment at Park Avenue, at around 1pm yesterday (July 30).

Local firemen extricated them from the car using cutting equipment and winched the vehicle away using hydraulic machinery.

The two people were treated by paramedics at the scene.

'Rich getting richer, poor getting poorer'

I WOULD like to remind Mrs B Kirke that just after the war most people were fully employed (GEM letters, July 17).

That's how we managed; not like today, where most of the employed people are part-timers.

If you have a full-time job, you are one of the lucky ones – but even then it's a struggle.

I have a daughter who works part-time because she cannot find a full-time job. Recently, the Government stopped her tax credits – amending the hours to 30 per week.

My daughter now gets £100 per week to live on.

Before this UK Government starts slashing people's income they want to get the country back to full-time jobs.

It's my belief that since the days of Thatcher, we've had two million people unemployed.

After serving in the forces, I returned to my old job and my wife worked full-time. In 1955, I bought my first car. Today you are struggling just to run a car.

That's 35 years of Tory policies. At least when the unions 'ran' the country, we were better off!

So who runs the country best? Not this Government.

All they have achieved is making the rich richer and the poor poorer.

Bill Lang, Barry.

'Not my intention to exaggerate'

I WOULD like to acknowledge Mr Gavin Davies' letter in The GEM, concerning my World War One poem.

I entirely agree with his contention that there is no need to exaggerate the number of the fallen of the Great War. That was not my intention!

My intention was to honour all those who fought and died or were injured.

The facts I used in the post script were obtained from the internet; it was remiss of me not to check that they were accurate.

However, my main aim was to bring to the fore the tremendous sacrifice of all those soldiers who so gallantly served between 1914 and 1918 made on behalf of their country.

I would like to place on record my appreciation of the work that Mr Davies does to ensure the maintenance of the Welsh Memorial at Mametz, and wish him the very best for the future.

Ray Pritchard, Talbot Green.

Confusion over dog ban 'sign'

I N reply to the letter from Jo Cody about dogs being allowed on Llantwit Major beach, she mentions 'a map' displayed in the car park allowing them on to the beach. Several of us have yet to see it!

I have heard they can go on the part of the beach to the left of the car park, but because there is no sign saying this, people are ignoring the dog ban sign and taking their dogs onto the beach.

I feel her letter will confuse the issue of 'NO DOGS'!

Margaret Wood, Boverton.

MP REPLIES TO CRITICISM...

'Vale deserves fairer funding settlement'

LAST week, Mr Ingram rightly highlighted the way that the Vale of Glamorgan is underfunded by the Welsh Government from Cardiff Bay.

This is something that I have been campaigning on for a number of years. Regular readers of this newspaper will be aware of my actions in seeking to correct the shortfall.

Last year, I highlighted that Carwyn Jones AM and his colleagues underfunded the Vale by £202 per person compared with Cardiff. Bridgend receives £226 more per person and Rhondda Cynon Taff receives £409 per capita.

If the Welsh Government funded the Vale at the same rate as Cardiff, we would gain an additional £25m a year.

This would stop any cuts that are being made on the basis of cost savings.

Mr Ingram, however, blames the division of local government back in 1995 – only a short time after I left school!

The truth is that the Welsh Government have revised the formula several times since then. Each time the Vale has become worse off. When I calculated the data three years ago, the difference with Cardiff was just £77. The gap is ever widening and is simply unfair. We are either being taken for granted, or seen as a soft touch.

The biggest shift in the funding allocation took place when the late Peter Law, the then Assembly Member for Blaenau Gwent, led a campaign to favour his own area back in 2000. This is when the Vale took a financial hammering. Each revision thereafter has made us worse off.

This is why I have been running the 'fair funding for the Vale' campaign. Well over a thousand people have signed my online petition and I hope that Mr Ingram will join them.

Last time I met the Vale cabinet, I asked them to join me in a delegation to meet the First Minister on this issue. Although the Vale Council leader initially rejected my request, I was pleased that he then said he would consider the matter. I am still waiting for his formal response.

Therefore, I hope that Mr Ingram and his colleagues will join my all-party campaign to gain a fair settlement for the Vale. This is not a party issue. I have been careful to ensure that other political groups are welcomed – and delighted that some have responded positively.

Working together for Welsh people

NOW that Vale MP, Alun Cairns, has a junior minister's job at the Welsh Office, is it too much to hope that he'll stop his frequent attacks on the Welsh Assembly Government?

Let's hope the new Minister for Wales, Stephen Crabb and our MP will work with, and not against, the democratically-elected Welsh Assembly Government – for the benefit of all Welsh people.

The attacks on the Welsh NHS made by David Cameron and Mr Cairns were done to take attention away from the shambles that is the NHS in England – caused by the reorganisation no-one voted for.

Should the Conservatives have a majority after the general election, they will finish the job and complete the privatisation of the English NHS.

It has always been the Conservatives' aim to have the Health Service run by private, for profit companies.

G Smith, Llantwit Major.

I am not seeking the same level of support as RCT. They have very real needs. Cardiff, on the other hand, is one of the UK's most successful cities. We deserve a funding settlement at least on par with our neighbours. After all, Barry has some of the most deprived communities in Wales.

Alun Cairns, MP for the Vale of Glamorgan.

'Congratulations rather churlish'

I THOUGHT that Guy Ingram from Llantwit First was rather churlish in his congratulations to Alun Cairns MP, following his promotion to the Wales Office and as a Government Whip (GEM letters last week).

He seemed to question whether Mr Cairns will now have time for his constituents. I am certainly no member of the Conservative Party, but agree with him, but his commitment wins my vote.

In last week's GEM, he would have seen that for himself.

During last weekend, he reported visiting a business, knocking doors and attending three different fetes – all on the same day.

This is on top of all the other activity championing local interests and causes that I am pleased to see in the local press.

Let's celebrate Mr Cairns' success and acknowledge that he is a very hard-working MP both locally and in London. I don't always agree with him, but his commitment wins my vote.

Elizabeth Wills, Peterston Super Ely.

Nice houses, but what about the road?

The scene on Town Mill Road.

IT'S great news that the new houses in Town Mill Road, Cowbridge are finally finished – it's been a long haul for the local residents.

But when will the road and pavement be finished and put in an acceptable state?

It is like a lunar surface, with patches on top of patches, craters, lumps and bumps that make driving a nightmare.

The question is – who is responsible and when will they fix things?
J Williams, Cowbridge.

Beth's story is 'inspirational'

WHAT an inspiration to read Beth Margetson's story in last week's GEM and her battle with cancer.

For whatever reason, conventional pharmaceutical drugs do not work for some people – or in my experience can have serious side effects causing other health problems.

They have to look at other ways of treating or maintaining health by taking a holistic approach, recognising each individual's specific needs.

Some of us are fortunate to have well-educated doctors who will support their patient's choices, and know the benefits of holistic medicine, but generally it is an area which needs immediate attention.

Indeed, an organic diet is essential, along with organic supplements towards achieving one's aims – not forgetting healthcare, beauty, and cleaning products which need to be organic and natural, so as not to add to the dangerous 'chemical cocktail' build-up which causes so many health problems. Our pets can also benefit from such care.

Barry's own Holland & Barrett stock the wheatgrass and barleygrass, as well as other useful products, and Waitrose have a good selection of organic produce.

Beanbreaks of St Mary Street, Cardiff, have added an organic juice bar to their store, but yes, we certainly need more access to these products and information in the centre of our town.

Thank you to Caroline Sarll for covering this brave lady's story, and the issues she has outlined. God bless you, Beth, I wish you victory!
Kasey Starr, Barry.

Resorts that put Barry to shame

COMING home from our recent break on the east Norfolk coast at a small town called Caister, we have had time to reflect on our travels.

One day, we travelled the short distance to the seaside resort of Great Yarmouth, and we were in awe of what we encountered. Walking through the main square to the beach, we encountered numerous shops selling everything you could wish for.

The walk up the main promenade to the sea life centre put Barry to shame. I know the traders of Barry are doing all they can and are doing a superb job, but if only our councils would have a bit of vision and take a trip to one of these English coastal resorts.

Barry could be a wonderful thriving resort, if we had the people to invest in it. Just look at what previous councils have destroyed.

We had Butlins – now gone; we had the Knap Lido – now gone. This is trying to be revived, but I hear the council have rejected this – no surprise there then.

We had the last cinema in Barry, the Theatre Royal – now gone and replaced by a dismal monstrosity.

Various councils past and present should all hang their heads in shame; instead of looking after yourselves give us, the people of Barry, something we can be proud of: invest our money.

Visit these other seaside resorts and see what can be achieved.
DJ Radford, Barry.

HIGH TIDE TIMES (UNTIL AUGUST 7)

The high tides listed in this week's GEM are those in Porthcawl. It should be remembered that along the coast, high tide times will vary.

For instance, in Barry, the high point will be 20 – 25 minutes later.

JACK AND VAL CELEBRATE 65TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY!

by GEM REPORTER

A BARRY couple will celebrate 65 years of marriage next Monday (August 4).

Valerie and Jack Hopkins were married at St Helen's Roman Catholic Church in the town in 1949.

John (known as Jack) was one of nine children in a family at Merthyr Street, Barry. He served as a gunner from 1946-48 with '27 Heavy Regiment, Royal Artillery'.

On his return from national service, he met Valerie Owen, the youngest of five girls from a family who lived at Churchill Terrace, Cadroxton.

Their daughter Anne Hopkins-Bousie told The GEM: "They went on to have a large family of seven children of their own – five girls and two boys.

"Sadly, they lost their eldest daughter, Gillian, last year.

"My parents have lived and worked in Barry and the rest of the Vale all their lives, and are now happily retired in Rhosce and enjoying life.

"Dad celebrated his 86th birthday yesterday. "They will be celebrating their Blue Sapphire 65th anniversary, with their children and their lovely families this weekend.

"What an achievement! Sixty five years of marriage – seven children, eight grandchildren, and three great grandchildren. "Happy anniversary to them both from all the Hopkins' gang!"

...And best wishes also from all at The Glamorgan GEM!

BARRY COUNCIL WARNS: 'Don't leave any of your valuables at the cemetery'

BARRY Town Council is warning people not to leave valuables on graves at Merthyr Dyfan cemetery, following a recent incident.

It reminds people that if they do so, it is at their own risk.

A spokeswoman explained: "An incident took place at Merthyr Dyfan Cemetery on July 22. It involved a money box, which had been left on a grave, being smashed open.

"Obviously, this was very distressing for the family.

"It is sad that items placed on a grave are subject to such disrespect by a few members of the community – but unfortunately, such incidents do on occasion occur, and therefore we would advise that no items of value are left on graves for this reason.

"Also we would ask that should you see anyone acting in what you perceive to be a suspicious way at the cemetery, that you inform the staff."

Barry families mark 'FAST' graduation...

A BARRY primary school has taken part in an award-winning project that strengthens and builds positive relationships between schools, families and local communities to ensure children thrive at school.

High Street Primary School celebrated the graduation day of 18 families who took part in Save the Children's 'Families and Schools Together' (FAST) programme supported by Morrisons.

The eight week programme is voluntary and available to all families with young children. It encourages mums, dads and children to perform everyday tasks together such as sharing a family meal, playing games and spending one-on-one time with each other.

As well as taking part in group activities, families have also been introduced to other mums and dads in the school.

Children and parents at High Street celebrated the final evening of FAST by graduating at a Hawaiian themed party during the last week of term. The graduation event was a chance for all involved to congratulate each other on their hard work.

Mrs Lesley Matthews, FAST site co-ordinator said: "The project has had a direct impact on parental engagement within the school and the wellbeing of families."

"This culminated in a fantastic Hawaiian graduation ceremony, where 18 families graduated with their extended families and friends joining in the celebration.

"I would like to thank all the team members and volunteers who worked very hard over the eight week period to support the families, and also to thank the families for taking on the weekly challenges."

"Thanks also to Helen Cocco from Save the Children and to Morrisons for funding the project".

Headteacher Mrs Sian Howell added: "This is the best project the school has been involved in; promoting the importance of families' involvement with their child's learning and development".

Parent Veronica Ayres, who took part in the FAST programme, said: "Initially, I was very unsure as to what FAST was. With two little girls aged four and nearly three, I thought we would go and find out. My husband used to join us half way through, once he had finished work.

A celebration cake!

"Both of our daughters' confidence has grown enormously and we have made a lot of new friends. We have also got to know the staff at High Street Primary School."

"We can't thank enough all of the staff and the volunteers who have made this possible and to Save the Children for the funding. We would definitely recommend FAST to other families!"

Since 2011 over 2,200 children across Wales have benefited from the Families and Schools Together (FAST) initiative held in the Vale, Cardiff, Caerphilly, Rhondda Cynon Taf, Blaenau Gwent and Newport local authorities.

Mary Powell-Chandler, Head of Save the Children in Wales said: "FAST makes a huge difference to the families that take part. It brings together the key elements in determining a child's success; their school, their family, and the community. FAST ensures that children are given the support they need to thrive."

SUPPORT FOR THE STRAWBERRY TEA!

WI get ready for their hungry guests!

THERE was great support for the Dinas Powys Voluntary Concern annual Strawberry Tea held on a pleasant Wednesday afternoon in the Lee Hall gardens.

Very generously, the WI donated and served a magnificent selection of homemade cakes. The strawberries were donated by Huw Evans of Budgens on the Cardiff Road. The village show provided the gazebos, which were much appreciated thanks to the wonderful sunshine.

The Georgia Jazz Quartet played old time music much to the enjoyment of the guests.

Although not primarily a fundraising event, the treasurer was pleased to report that the raffle was well supported and the ticket sales were buoyant. Many community organisers contributed to the success of the day which will help to support the work of the charity.

Coun John Fanshaw, chairman of DPVC, expressed his appreciation for the generous support, both financial and time, ensuring the success of the event. He reminded everyone that the Community Club continues through the summer. On August 4, there will be a talk regarding the impact The Great War had on the community. This will be held at the Lee Hall at 1.30pm.

On August 11, there will be bingo. All are welcome.

'Friends' group enjoy a cream tea in Barry!

FRIENDS and neighbours enjoyed their monthly meeting with a 'Strawberry Cream Tea' with Pimms at Beryl Road Pioneer Hall.

Well over 40 members and volunteers enjoyed the afternoon and new members were made welcome including two married couples.

Entertainment was provided by Tenovus Choir and the members enjoyed singing along to the well known lyrics.

The theme of the afternoon was 'Posh Hats and Frocks' and it was great to see so many of the ladies taking part with their hats, flowers and hair fascinators.

The group are now looking forward to a busy August programme with lunch at Spinney.

Subject to small changes, the programme of shorts will last one hour 20 minutes and include: Opening Speech (1961), Blinkity Blank (1955), Le Merle (1958), Pas de Deux (1968), Synchromy (1971), Lines Horizontal (1962), Neighbours (1952), Là-Haut Sur Ces Montagnes (1945), V is for Victory (1941), Love On The Wing (1938), Hen Hop (1942), Begone Dull Care (1949) and A Chairy Tale (1957).

Did over £100,000 of taxpayers' money go down the drain – ALL FOR THE SAKE OF A KEY?

A councillor claims a legal dispute over access to a lane on the outskirts of Barry may have cost the Vale Council more than £100,000.

Coun Philip Clarke, who took the council to a civil court, says the whole dispute and its huge costs, could have been avoided if he had simply been given a key, allowing access through a gate and down Cwm-Ciddy Lane.

He and his wife Alison moved to their property in 1987 and in the early years were able to go up and down the lane, which leads to Porthkerry Park, by car or horse.

But in around 1996 neighbours near the lane

by TIM CHAPMAN

objected and took action. Coun Clarke explained: "A lock was attached to a gate preventing my legal right of access from our property south along Cwm-Ciddy Lane to Porthkerry Park."

"This action, initiated by neighbours, was supported by the council.

"My requests to remove the lock were refused on a number of occasions which left me with no other option but to take legal action to uphold our right of way."

"It was my view that the action was one sided and not in the public interest because there was a possibility of the council losing the case with the cost implications for the public purse."

Coun Clarke, who represents Rhosee, said that two years ago when he was elected a councillor he again took steps to bring about a resolution with the Vale Council, anxious that the dispute be settled amicably and without further cost.

"I sought to resolve the matter again by speaking to the council requesting a key. This was refused, leaving me with no option but to continue with my claim."

"The Vale Council had contacted a London barrister and requested a three day hearing at a Cardiff court which included a site visit."

"Their legal team amended their defence. This meant that my legal team of Berry Smith LLB had a significant increase in workload with additional legal costs."

Coun Clarke said: "I was frustrated and stressed – my capital was at risk, but not that of my neighbours."

"At this point, with my costs alone rising above £50,000, I requested that my lawyer offer a 'drop hands'." It would have meant Coun Clarke discontinuing his claim and both parties ending up responsible for their own costs.

Coun Clarke takes up the story: "The offer was refused. Had I capitulated at that point we would have been subject to the council's costs as well as our own which were substantial."

The hearing took three days with witnesses from both sides.

Coun Clarke said: "Our witnesses were members of the public who gave good evidence to support our claim by giving a true and accurate account of their journeys to and from Cwm-Ciddy farm and our property in vehicles, on horseback, and on foot in the years gone by."

"Written and verbal statements from witnesses on both sides were subject to cross examination by the barristers."

"Some months later we received the judgment informing us that we had won our case which meant that the council had to foot the legal bill of our costs and theirs which I understand was in excess of six figures."

"They had to provide

Local author lands top crime writing award

A crime novel launched at Cowbridge Book Festival by best-selling author Belinda Bauer has won a major literary award, writes TIM CHAPMAN.

'Rubberneck' took the Theakstons Old Peculier Crime Novel of the Year award at the Harrogate crime writing festival recently.

It establishes Belinda, who lives near Cowbridge, in the first rank of popular crime novelists.

Judges described her book as "extraordinary, original and compelling". Past winners of the award have included Lee Child and Val McDermid.

Belinda told The GEM: "It is a wonderful victory for me and for Wales, and just goes to show that there are no boundaries when it comes to a good story."

"I've lived here longer than I've lived anywhere, and returning to my student days through the eyes of my hero, Patrick Fort, was a pleasure."

But for Belinda it wasn't just a case of creating an exciting story, she wanted to make it as authentic as possible and that involved doing extensive background research.

"Patrick is a medical student at Cardiff University, who believes the body he's dissecting in anatomy class might be a murder victim. I had to do so much medical research I should have taken exams!

"I had lots of help from the university – and reading groups and libraries in the Vale have been very enthusiastic about my books, so it's nice that all that local support has translated into a prestigious international prize."

"I know lots of local people voted for me, so a big 'Thank You' to all of them."

Belinda shot to literary fame when she won the CWA Gold Dagger for her debut novel Blacklands four years ago.

Since then, she has been a regular visitor to the Cowbridge Book Festival.

The organiser of the festival, Stella Cheeseman, said she was thrilled by Belinda's latest success.

She said: "I was delighted to hear that Belinda had won this prestigious award. Delighted, but not surprised!"

"She creates the most unlikely heroes that the reader cares about and then places them in the most gripping and original stories that we can't put down."

"Clearly, Belinda Bauer is a name we should look out for in the future."

Belinda carried off a prize of £3,000 and the award, a small hand-carved oak beer cask.

BARRY MAN'S SHOCK AT SPIDER BITE INFECTION SCARE!

Anti-biotics failed to stop the infection.

ABOVE: Jason's foot went purple as the infection spread.

Jason believes it was a False Widow spider, like the one shown in this image.

Jason added: "I want people in Barry to be aware of the danger."

Although the professionals haven't hazarded a guess as to the spider responsible, Jason and Sonia are confident it was a 'False Widow' spider with a bulbous, shiny black back.

Jason is being looked after at home by his family, and undergoing negative pressure vacuum wound treatment to get more of the infection out.

"I think I've got a four to six month recuperation," he added.

'So good, we went twice!'

CONGRATULATIONS to all the cast and crew of The Wedding Singer, performed by Billboard last week at Barry Memorial Hall.

It was a brilliant performance, full of energy and inspiration – so good in fact that we went twice!

However, we were disappointed that the bar was closed before the end of the show, which discourages the audience from waiting for the cast to congratulate them and have a chat.

This always happened in past years. Is the management aware that Barry Memorial Hall is the only theatre in south Wales which closes its bar well before the end of a show?

In addition, it was extremely hot in the auditorium due to the air conditioning having broken down and not being repaired in time.

We were almost melting in the audience but more importantly, I really felt for the cast who were visibly suffering, but continued on with the show brilliantly. Well done, Billboard!

Let's hope things will be different for another Barry company, Superstars, who will be performing Hairspray.. Deryn Grigg, Barry.

Villagers remember Captain Tom Clarke

THE tragic death of Captain Tom Clarke from Cowbridge, who was killed in a helicopter crash in Afghanistan in April, touched people in the Vale deeply.

In the aftermath, villagers in Miskin decided to do something to honour his memory, and set about raising funds for the Army Benevolent Fund (ABF).

Two local women who stepped forward to organise an event were Sue Palmer and Deb Thomas. Deb was particularly keen to do something as she was a friend of Tom's family.

They approached the landlords of the Miskin Arms, Colin Ferris and Wayne Dalton, with plans for an evening's entertainment at the pub, and they readily agreed.

Local band RHM, made up of vocalist Hollie Willis, guitarist Ralph Evans, and Malc Chamley on keyboards, offered their services for free.

Indeed, they were prepared to play a long set, starting around 8pm and finishing at 10.30pm.

Sue and Deb were looking for another act to keep everyone entertained until midnight, and they were delighted when the Minnesingers Male Chorus – a locally-based choir – stepped forward to do a late night shift.

Meryn Williams, the musical director of the Minnesingers, said that the choir had been formed about 12 years ago, and had been delighted to perform for such a cause.

Miskin, after all, was a little closer to home than their previous concert – in Valencia!

The evening proved to be a great success and, as a result, Colonel Kevin Davies, the Deputy Commander of 160 (Wales) Brigade in Brecon, met the group at the Miskin Arms to receive a cheque for £610.

He thanked the group for their efforts, adding that, as a Cowbridge resident himself, he was only too aware of the impact of the tragedy.

Another of the crash victims, Lance Corporal Oliver Thomas, also had strong family connections in the Vale.

Col Davies talked about the work done by the Army Benevolent Fund, and explained how it helped to fund other Forces' charities, in particular SSAFA and Combat Stress.

The Minnesingers came along to perform after the cheque was handed over, and Deb Thomas said: "It was great that they came along tonight. Our thanks go to them, and also to Colin and Wayne letting us use the Miskin Arms."

"Finally, I would like to thank Sue Palmer. She started the ball rolling, and has worked so hard to make it all happen."

Warning about safety railings

IREFER to an item in The GEM on July 24 when Coun Bertin referred to the new beach huts at Barry Island and the fact that the money could be better spent elsewhere.

I appealed to the Vale Council some months ago about the gradual disappearance of safety railings on the Old Harbour breakwater.

I said that these should be replaced and restored, to prevent people making the steep drop onto rocks, sand or into water – particularly now that the footpath to the breakwater has been so much improved, encouraging people to go there.

Would not these safety railings be a better expenditure of council taxpayers' money? Mrs Anne Sprinks, Dinas Powys.

In the steps of Saint Paul

ALL Saints Church in Victoria Square, Penarth, held two special services during July on the theme of 'Journeys'.

At Messy Church on July 20, we were happy to welcome around 80 people of all ages to learn more about St Paul's missionary journeys.

We explored the theme through making and floating origami boats to remember Paul surviving a shipwreck, building a train out of boxes so we could follow Jesus, and making balloon-powered cars (which required a lot of puff from our helpers!)

Lesley Cox led worship, during which we learned about Paul covering a total of 5,000 miles on foot. The afternoon finished with high tea on the gallery. Many thanks to Sarah Taylor who provided our musical support this month.

The theme was revisited in our All Age Service on Sunday, July 27, with worship songs accompanied by Rev Peter Cox on guitar and James Livingstone on clarinet, and a reading from Paul's letter to the Romans led by the Honour family.

Man suffered fractured jaw

A PORTHCAWL man, who was kneed in the face, suffered a fracture to the right side of his jaw, Cardiff Crown Court has been told.

His attacker, Shaun James (22), who also broke into his own mother's home and stole £40 that she had raised for church funds after selling cakes, was jailed for 22 months.

James, of no fixed address, who had lived in New Road, Porthcawl, admitted inflicting grievous bodily harm on Jay Holwell (22) and a charge of burglary.

Judge Stephen Hopkins QC said James had "rained blows" on Mr Holwell before delivering a 'coup de grace' by kneeling him with full force in the face.

The burglary, said the judge, was "as mean and spiteful as one could imagine."

Prosecutor Jonathan Bushell said Mr Holwell had been a friend of James.

James made false accusations against Mr Holwell and on December 16, a gang of 10 to 20 people including James, surrounded Mr Holwell in Porthcawl.

James punched him 10 times and as Mr Holwell tried to defend himself, he was kneed in the face, causing the right side of his jaw to snap.

Moments later, he had difficulty breathing because of blood in his mouth.

He was treated at Morriston Hospital, where plates and screws were put into his jaw.

A number of nerves were affected and a full recovery could take two years.

When arrested, James said Mr Holwell suffered the injuries because he fell over.

While on bail, his mother gave him a meal before she went to court.

When she returned, she found her home had been broken into and £40 stolen.

James was said to have convictions for 14 offences, including theft and burglary.

His counsel, Hugh Wallace, said that it was his first conviction for an offence of violence. The theft from his mother, he said "was nothing less than biting the hand which fed him".

He was ordered to pay £100 victim surcharge.

The Penarth Ramblers get close to nature

THE prize of an enamelled kingfisher brooch for the first person to spot the somewhat elusive kingfisher lured 17 walkers out on a hot and sultry morning for a visit to the delightful Usk Valley, beginning from the small National Trust car park near Clytha Park.

Setting out with leader William and joining the Usk Valley Walk to pass Trostre Lodge, the group set to the task of winning the badge and keen eyes found a grey heron, the first of many, then a family of green woodpeckers and some ducks, but no kingfisher.

Heading across the river at Chain Bridge some very overgrown footpaths through fields led to their coffee break in the shade of a couple of oak trees, before crossing the Newport to Abergavenny railway line and pausing on the bridge to view the old station, now converted into a picturesque private dwelling.

Skirting around Llanover Park Estate and reaching the beautiful 13th century St Bartholomew's Church at Llanover, the group enjoyed lunch in the shade, along with one of William's favourite poems by WH Davies.

Returning to the river, a colony of sand martins swooped down over the water after insects as the group disturbed a party of Canada geese preening themselves.

Up ahead and oblivious to the group of walkers, a kingfisher was hovering above the water after a fish which it missed. Landing on an overhanging branch, it spotted the group and with a flash of electric blue, streaked away.

With the afternoon sun still high in the sky and finding a pebble beach on a bend in the river, boots and socks came off for a cooling paddle and a presentation of the kingfisher brooch to Terry.

A family of swans quietly paddled by, while a pair of lapwings took to flight and, re-crossing the river at Llanvihangel Gobian, the brilliant day was rounded off with a thirst-quenching drink in the Clytha Arms, a converted dower house.

Police tracking the petrol scam thieves

FOLLOWING several petrol thefts in the Barry area, officers in the town are warning that more and more drivers are turning to theft to escape the high price of fuel.

South Wales Police warn that criminals behind this practice pose a much wider problem for everyday motorists.

PC Nicola Owen explained: "Thieves targeting fuel pumps are also targeting number plates in an effort to pin their crime on other drivers."

"We have issued a CCTV imagery of a suspected fuel thief that is wanted in connection with theft of fuel from Morrisons in Barry on May 3 at around 1.30pm. The silver Ford Focus he was driving was fitted with two different numbers plates when he filled up with fuel and drove off without paying".

Inspector Chris Owen gave more detail: "Thieves steal, or fraudulently clone, a number plate of an existing road user. They then attach those plates to other cars, sometimes a very similar make or model to the original vehicle, and use it to commit various crimes including petrol theft.

Petrol theft may be the focus but it's much more involved than that". "People don't realise what a serious crime it is if their number plates go missing, or are copied, until they get a parking fine or their insurer says they were involved in an accident when in fact it's down to someone else using their number plates." Anyone with information in connection to the CCTV imagery should contact South Wales Police on 101 quoting reference number 1400152024. Alternatively Crimestoppers can be called anonymously on 0800 555 111 or via their website www.crimestoppers-uk.org/give-information.

AM WELCOMES 'DEMENTIA' PLANS

REGIONAL AM Andrew RT Davies has welcomed the launch of a three-year plan to tackle dementia in and around the Vale of Glamorgan.

Experts are predicting a rise of up to 53 per cent in cases of dementia in Cardiff and the Vale by 2030.

The action plan has been developed in conjunction with carers and patients and will be delivered by the local health board alongside the Vale and Cardiff councils.

Mr Davies said: "I'm pleased to see that this plan has been developed in co-ordination with patients and carers."

"Government initiatives are all too often driven from the centre, when success is actually dependant on buy in from the people who have an everyday understanding of the issues faced by dementia sufferers. Most Vale residents will have a friend or family member who has been affected by this tragic disease and it is alarming that experts now expect the numbers to grow in the coming years."

Alcohol and dementia link

NEW research has uncovered a link between drinking alcohol and dementia.

Experts say that patients should be told to cut their alcohol intake as part of new health checks for the over 40s in England.

'Mid-life MoTs' do not operate in Wales, but South Wales Central AM Andrew RT Davies said that the advice would be an invaluable public health message - particularly in light of a predicted rise in dementia cases.

Council defends school time advice during summit

VALE MP Alun Cairns has called on the Vale Council to justify the closure times at local schools during the NATO summit which is due to take place in Newport this September, writes TIM CHAPMAN.

Many of the 11,500 people attending the summit will be arriving at Cardiff Airport and making their down the M4 to Newport.

The Vale Council, mindful of disruption on the road network, has provided advice to headteachers which means there will be adjustments to school hours. But Mr Cairns said he was angry at what he termed a "blanket approach" to close schools in Barry and the rest of the Vale, which he says conflicts with police advice, and guidance given by the NATO Unit and 10 Downing Street.

He said the Vale Council was over-reacting to the summit, with schools closing at 2pm on Wednesday, September 3, and Friday, September 5, and to open at 11am on Thursday, September 4. Mr Cairns insisted: "Closing schools during the NATO summit is absolutely unnecessary."

"The police have categorically stated that there will be no closure of roads. They have merely said that pinch points will be managed while the summit is taking place which will minimise the impact on the community.

"They have also commented that they will avoid peak times of travel, taking into account the drop off and pick up times of schools in the area."

"I have received countless complaints from parents who are concerned about the effects that the school closures will have on their children."

"What is most shocking is that some schools in Cardiff and Newport will remain open while our schools will be closed. The argument about the airport and the roads around it is not recognised by the organising bodies."

Mr Cairns added: "As a new Welsh Office Minister, I will play a part in the NATO summit. As a result, I will continue to pursue matters with the senior police and the officials at 10 Downing Street to ensure the least possible disruption locally."

The Vale Council's director of learning and skills, Jennifer Hill, explained that it was trying to balance local pupils' education with possible congestion on the road network.

She said: "Given the scale of the event and role of Cardiff Airport, there will inevitably be some disruption to the transport network in the Vale."

"The Vale Council will be working hard in the run-up to the summit to ensure that our residents are fully aware of any likely impact to our services."

She emphasised: "The council is taking the same approach as other local authorities in south Wales and working with schools in the county to ensure the impact on children's education is kept to a minimum."

"In the run-up to the event, each school is advising parents about the arrangements they have made during the summit. Taking account of advice, a number of schools have decided to alter their start or finishing times to minimise disruption."

VALE COUNCIL WELCOMES £1m LOCAL INVESTMENT

BARRY has been named as one of seven areas to benefit from a £7m tackling poverty fund.

Minister for Housing and Regeneration, Carl Sargeant, recently announced that Barry would be receiving a £1m injection to help with a variety of projects.

The money will go towards funding the conversion of empty properties on Holton Road into affordable homes for young families, as well as improvements to Victoria Gardens, including the lighting of paths and enhanced disabled access.

The funding will also go towards improving children's facilities in the Gibbonsdown area. New play equipment for younger children, as well as new picnic benches, will be introduced at Dryden Terrace, and improvement works will begin at Meggitt Road, including re-surfacing, installing new football goals, and improving access for pushchairs and disabled users.

Improvements will also be made to convert empty shops into homes on Main Street, create a community and internet café at the Barry YMCA, improve children's play areas in Barry, including the George Street play area, and help with the merger of the Vale Centre for Voluntary Services and the Vale Volunteer Bureau.

Coun Lis Burnett, cabinet member for regeneration, innovation, planning and transportation, said: "This is fantastic news for residents, businesses and our Third Sector partners in Barry."

"We made a strong case for encouraging investment to make better use of commercial properties; to support children and young people through learning and play opportunities; to address fuel poverty issues; and to provide service hubs that support people into education, training, volunteering or employment. "I expect the benefits of this investment to be widespread."

Coun Neil Moore, Vale Council Leader, added: "The council is committed to achieving the best future investment strategy for Barry and will work constructively with the Welsh Government to achieve this."

"We are delighted to receive this news and I am very much looking forward to seeing the programme of projects come to fruition."

Car park dispute: police issue appeal

POLICE are appealing for witnesses following a dispute between two men on Sunday, July 13, around 2.30pm in the car park at Southerndown.

They wish to speak to two male bikers who were present at the time, and may have witnessed the incident near a fish and chip van in the car park.

'LET'S NOT SPOIL FAMILY FUN ON THE BEACHES' – GEM READER

I AM writing regarding a minor incident which occurred today (Friday, July 25) when as a Barry family of four, we arrived at Southerndown beach at midday ready for a fun afternoon on the beach.

WORLD WAR 1 CENTENARY 1914-2014
COMMEMORATION SERVICE

11.00am SUNDAY 3rd AUGUST 2014
at
HOLY CROSS CHURCH, COWBRIDGE

All welcome

"WE WILL REMEMBER THEM."

(Please be seated by 10.55am)

We set up camp in an area which was not overpopulated but had a few families dotted around.

After a short time, we decided to play a game of rounders just in front of our tent. It was hilarious and great fun until a lady returned to her umbrella and beach towel, obviously unhappy we were playing in her area.

As the sponge ball rolled onto her blanket, obviously annoyed, she asked us why, when the beach was so large, did we choose to play near her? Her manner was unpleasant and rude and we stopped playing instantly.

I chose not to reply, partly because I believe she had embarrassed herself sufficiently and also, as children were in the vicinity, I did not want to cause a scene.

The reason for my letter is this: it's the first week of the school summer holidays and we are basking in the unusually hot summer.

How many parents are desperate to have time off work to enjoy these precious days with their children? Surely if anyone chooses to go to the beach during these holidays, they must expect families to be enjoying in games all over the sand.

Plus, families have every right to play wherever they want – after all, as individuals we do not own the beach. As a 44-year-old mother of two, I have spent many a happy day at the seaside being splashed, being hit by stray balls, being run into and have even fallen over running children!

It's the beach – it's fine to have fun and be a family in the company of hundreds of other people.

I feel the lady at Southerndown (who was accompanied by another lady and a small child), should have been thrilled to see a family enjoying themselves away from electronic gadgets and televisions.

Summer holidays are a time to embrace the joy a family feels when spending time together, it is not the time to covet a piece of sand and be selfish enough to stop their enjoyment.

Let's enjoy the sun and school summer holidays; let children be children, and families spend quality time together on a beach playing a ball game.

The lady didn't spoil our afternoon – as a family, we enjoy each other's company whatever we're doing.

But please, if you visit the beach this summer expect ball games, laughter and families having fun, so please don't spoil their holidays by being so grumpy.

Instead, let's practice community spirit and encourage families to enjoy our beautiful local beaches.

In my opinion, it's the best day out a family can have.

LETTER

'Not in favour of a merger'

SO a new poll of more than 600 residents has revealed there is strong opposition to the merger of Cardiff and Vale Councils. I am really not surprised because this would have a detrimental impact on Barry and the rest of the Vale.

It is now important that we all take notice of this opposition because it is clear the residents of the Vale do not want it.

I have to agree that we would lose our local identity, have less accountability and my concern is that Cardiff would dump their 40,000 plus housing allocation here in the Vale.

A two-thirds majority cannot be wrong and I have consistently objected to these proposals and will continue to do so. The public has spoken in a poll, so how about a proper referendum to decide?

If it is allowed to go ahead, this would be yet another Labour letdown because although costs must be brought down, a merger with Cardiff is certainly not the way forward.

We must now all continue in our fight against this proposal!
Coun Richard Bertin, Independent councillor.

Poignant time for us all to reflect, as Wales Remembers 1914-18

EVERYONE will be touched by the events marking the anniversary of the outbreak of the First World War on August 4, with a 'Lights Out' service and candlelight vigil at the Barry War Memorial from 9.30pm, organised by the Barry branch of the Royal British Legion.

All are welcome to attend and people are encouraged to bring their candles.

On August 4, the First Minister, Carwyn Jones AM, will attend a service at Glasgow Cathedral with Commonwealth Heads of State; and will come back to Wales to lead a national service of Commemoration at Llandaff Cathedral, as we start a commemorative period over the next four years.

The Welsh Government is supporting events and initiatives involving schools, community groups and choirs and has contributed to the memorial at Langemark in Belgium, and to the refurbishment of the memorial to the 38th (Welsh) Division at Mametz Wood.

The Dragon at Mametz Wood has been cleaned and restored under the supervision of sculptor David Petersen and is now back in place at Mametz Wood in France, ready for a commemorative event in July 2016, which will involve the local community, as well as families of veterans and all those involved in supporting the event.

Only recently, I attended the National Theatre Wales' powerful and moving production of Mametz in a wood near Usk, which was written by Owen

by Jane Hutt AM (Minister for Finance)

Sheers, drawing on the writings of Wyn Griffith and David Jones. The lives and experiences of all those affected in the Battle of Mametz and back home in Wales and England were brilliantly portrayed by Welsh actors.

Last week, Tim Rhys-Evans, who directs Only Boys Aloud, introduced a memorable concert at Atlantic College – following a week's work in bringing together young men aged 14 – 19 from rugby clubs across the south Wales valleys – chosen to sing and learn together with professionals from the Only Men Aloud team.

He spoke about their discussions during the week – when these young men 100 years ago were likely to have been the ones who would have gone off to war.

These were young people developing skills and self-confidence which will open up their opportunities, but they clearly wanted to understand and remember the history of the First World War and it was brought to them in a very powerful way.

All children and young people will be encouraged to find out about the impact the war had on their families and communities. I well remember my grandfather, who was an engineer in the Royal Navy at the Battle of Jutland. His brother was killed in the war.

Choirs will play their part in the commemorations, such as Cor Meibion De Cymru, who will sing in Flanders – including members from the Vale of Glamorgan.

Every local concern I have been to recently has included a hymn or song for commemoration.

The Cowbridge Male Voice Choir's annual concert on July 26, in the packed Leisure Centre, dedicated 'Gwahoddiad' to the memorials.

Across the Vale, there will be events, services and displays over the next few weeks, including the Glamorgan Wartime Heritage Centre at Barry Island Railway Station (open Wednesday afternoons from 2pm – 4pm and on Sunday, August 10); followed by the Wartime Weekend August 30 – 31 www.wartimeglamorgan.cymru'n Cofio! Wales Remembers 1914-1918.

VALE BRIDGE CLUB results

THE results for the Vale of Glamorgan Bridge Club for July 28 were:

First, Mike Best and David Birt, 77.05 per cent; second, Tony Disley and John Evans, 65.36; third, John Beard and Liam Sheridan, 60.42.

'Weak points on funding for Vale'

ICANNOT understand why your headline letter from last week (The GEM, July 24, 'Can Mr Cairns use his influence?') was given such prominence. The points made were weak.

I welcome Mr Ingram's congratulation to Mr Cairns for his elevation and that it must be good for the Vale, but he is Junior Office Minister for all of Wales and not just the Vale. Mr Cairns cannot use his position just for the Vale.

I also welcome Mr Ingram's encouragement for the visits to Westminster. I had the pleasure of one back in the 1980s (very much pre-Alun Cairns) and would recommend it to anyone vaguely interested in UK politics.

Mr Ingram goes on to say that the funding set up in 1995 has not been changed by subsequent Conservative administrations! I think he will find that the Tories left office in 1997 and we had a Labour UK administration from then until 2010. Does he think that the Conservatives are the only party able to alter the funding and the Socialists are not interested in Wales?

We have had a Labour-led Assembly since its inception, are they not responsible with their UK comrades over these years?

He says there is only nine months to sort it out. As I suspect, he wants a Labour victory at the general election and seems to also accept they will do nothing about the funding if elected.

The UK is now coming out of the economic mess left by the previous Labour administration and I know fair funding is of great importance to the Vale, but I fear there remain greater problems still to solve.

LITTLE PRINCESS TRUST TO BENEFIT AS... GEM article inspires reader to donate her locks to charity

Samantha with her plait (left) and (right) less than half an hour later, the job is complete and the Trust is set to benefit.

A recent GEM article inspired one of our readers to take the plunge – and donate her hair to the Little Princess Trust.

Samantha Liscombe from Barry had her hair cut in Newcastle and has forwarded her locks on to the trust.

The trust provides real-hair wigs, free of charge, to boys and girls across the UK and Ireland that have lost their own hair through cancer treatment.

Samantha said: "Reading an article in The GEM recently, inspired me to donate hair to the Little Princess Trust. "I hadn't thought my hair would be long enough but seeing the lady in the paper bravely having her hair cut, I knew I could do it, too.

"I've gone a lot shorter than I had first envisioned, but it is such a great cause that I'm just happy to have been able to help."

"My foot-long plait has already been sent off to the trust, and I'm over-the-moon with the amount of money I've raised so far and am hoping it will keep growing."

For children already suffering from cancer, losing hair can be very upsetting. For more information on the work of the trust, go to: www.littleprincesses.org.uk

Poll says 'No' to a Vale-Cardiff merger

A POLL of over 600 residents in Cardiff and the Vale has revealed strong opposition to Welsh Government plans for a merger of the two local authorities.

The poll, which was undertaken online and via telephone, found that almost two thirds (63.5 per cent) oppose the proposals to merge Cardiff with the Vale of Glamorgan. Just one in four support Welsh Labour's plans.

Respondents gave a range of reasons for their opposition, with one claiming that "council tax would rise"; another worried that communities in both areas would "lose local identity"; while another feared that "increasing the size of the local authority boundary would make councillors less accountable to their constituents".

One Vale of Glamorgan resident also expressed concern that a merger with Cardiff would lead to increased development on the Vale's green spaces.

The poll received 608 responses.

Regional AM, Andrew RT Davies, commented: "I have consistently expressed my own concerns, not just as a politician, but as a resident of the Vale, over these plans. It appears that residents in both Cardiff and the Vale are far from enthusiastic about Welsh Labour's plans to create a 'Greater Cardiff' authority.

"We all understand that the cost of politics needs to be brought down, but the wider Williams' proposals need to be considered sensibly on a case-by-case basis. Clearly, these proposals are not welcomed by the vast majority of local residents."

'Foodbanks sad indictment of cost of living crisis'

PROSPECTIVE Labour parliamentary candidate for the Vale, Chris Elmore, recently volunteered at the Vale Foodbank, taking donations in Tesco, in Barry.

"It is very concerning to see the number of families who are turning to foodbanks for support. Around 7,000 people from right across the Vale have now relied upon foodbanks since 2010," he said.

"Volunteers from across the Vale work so incredibly hard to help those in need and I was struck by their dedication and passion for helping those who are vulnerable."

"Spiralling energy costs, the rise in VAT and cuts to working tax credits have put thousands of families from right across the county on the brink."

"It is also shocking that of the 7,000 who have desperately turned to foodbanks, 3,000 are children," Mr Elmore pointed out.

"I was bitterly disappointed to hear that Tory ministers have refused to meet with the Trussell Trust, who operate the vast majority of foodbanks across the country.

"The more that they continue to put their heads in the sand, the more children will go hungry. They should at least come to the table and acknowledge there is an urgent problem that needs fixing."

The Trussell Trust operates three foodbanks in the Vale of Glamorgan – in Barry, Dinas Powys and Llantwit Major – which have all opened since 2010.

Foodbank use has risen by 43 per cent in one year. Across Wales, 79,000 have used foodbanks.

Just under one million people used foodbanks in the UK in the past year.

CATFEST'S RECORD BID

CATS Protection's Bridgend Adoption Centre is urging local people to join a cat-themed Guinness World Record attempt at Catfest 2014, on August 16.

"Taking place at the adoption centre on Pant Hirwaun, Bryncethin, Catfest 2014 will see hopeful record breakers celebrating the centre's 20th anniversary by attempting to set the record for the largest gathering of people dressed as cats," a spokeswoman explained.

"Would-be moggies will not only have the chance to don their best feline garb, but will also have the opportunity to enjoy the many other attractions available on the day between 10.30am and 4pm."

Entrance to the record-breaking event is £1 for adults, and 50p for children, with all money going to charity; the record attempt takes place between 2pm – 3pm.

For more information about the event, call 01656 723496, visit www.bridgend.cats.org.uk or turn up from 10.30am on August 16.

LUCY THE LEAP IS LOOKING FOR LOVE

DOGS Trust Bridgend is appealing to local dog-loving sports fans to help find a home for a talented four-legged athlete!

Adorable Staffordshire Bull Terrier Lucy Lou is known at the Rehoming Centre not only for her good looks, but for her athletic prowess.

This very energetic lady has been nicknamed 'Lucy the Leap', after Bridgend's former long jump legend Lyn 'The Leap' Davies, and staff hope her talents will help her win the ultimate prize in the form of a loving new home.

Playful pooch Lucy Lou was handed in when her owner was sadly no longer able to care for her, and is looking for a new best friend to play endless games of chase.

Two-year-old Lucy is a fetch fanatic who will bound after anything, be it a ball or a discus, and over anything!

She is a real heptathlete, who would love an active owner to help continue her agility training.

Beverley Price, Dogs Trust Bridgend rehoming centre Manager, said: "Lucy Lou is a golden girl who would make the perfect pet in the right home."

The GEM is in partnership with the Dog's Trust to find caring homes for animals in their charge at Bridgend Rehoming Centre (Tel 01656 725219)

Lucy the Leap in action

She needs to live with active, adult owners who have experience of her breed and will take the time to get to know her. She is still young and just like any athlete, she could do with extra training which will help her settle and become part of the family.

"Lucy Lou can live with a compatible dog able to keep up with her zest for life... Whether you are training for the Commonwealth games, or just enjoy long rambling walks, Lucy Lou could be the girl for you."

Anyone interested in offering Lucy a new home should call Dogs Trust Bridgend on 01656 725 219 or visit www.dogstrust.org.uk. Dogs Trust Bridgend has dogs of all shapes and sizes looking for homes and, when matching dogs with new owners, staff will consider a wide range of homes and circumstances providing that they will fit the requirements of the dog and provide them with a loving lasting home.

Bluebirds are winging in to play United!

ON Tuesday evening (August 5), Barry Town United welcome tough opposition from Cardiff City FC to Jenner Park, for the third annual pre-season friendly between the clubs (7pm kick-off).

Tickets are £5 (with a reduced rate for under-12s) and can be obtained from club secretary David Cole, on 07557 665847 or online at www.barryticketsource.co.uk

The Jenner Rooms will be open for refreshments, with a barbecue, face painting and junior football action at half-time adding to the family fun.

"Supporters are urged to secure their seats early to avoid disappointment; demand in recent years has been high and capacity restrictions will dictate the availability of tickets on the day," a club spokesman said.

Arts festival set to reach an exciting conclusion

NOW in its third year, Barry Arts Festival will reach an exciting conclusion this weekend, after more than 20 events across the town this week!

Tonight (Thursday), local singers from the Forte Cabaret Showcase at Barry Island Sports and Social perform a number of popular hits from the 60s and 70s. Archbishop of Wales, Barry Morgan, will speak at the Blue Deli on High Street, reflecting on the place of the church in modern society.

Tomorrow, local comedian Mike Bubbins is the star turn on Barry Island, but before that, Alex Harries from BBC Cymru's hit noir detective series, Y Gwyll/Hinterland, will be speaking at the Blue Deli about the success of the TV show.

An all-day folk music festival brings the arts festival to a close on Saturday, with headliners Phillip Henry and Hannah Martin, who have recently been awarded the Radio 2 Folk Awards prize for best duo.

Also on Saturday's line-up are the Roving Crows; Sean Taylor, who recently released his sixth album of blues music; Ange Hardy, Fetea Magazine's female vocalist of the year; multi-instrumentalists Ben Walker and Chris Knowles, and the local James Clode Band.

The folk festival starts at 3.30pm with tickets available on the door.

Calling young photographers!

WITH the school summer holidays stretching out ahead of us the RSPCA's 'Young Photographer Awards' is the perfect boredom buster for children.

They could win a brilliant prize for taking a photo of their favourite animal – whether that's a shot of a snail in the garden, a portrait of the family pooch or a snap of a sheep in a field. Plus, if they are a finalist, they will be invited to the awards ceremony at the Tower of London in December that I am hosting.

I've been judging the competition for several years now and it's always really exciting to sift through the entries and whittle them down to the winning shots.

There are some beautiful photographs which literally take your breath away, some shots which make you see animals in a completely different way and some pictures which just make you laugh.

Don't worry – you don't need an expensive camera to take part. If you are 18 and under just get snapping and visit www.rspca.org.uk/ypa for more information about the categories and how to enter.

Entries for this year's competition are already rolling in thick and fast but there is still plenty of time to submit your photos before the closing date on August 25.

Toy and train sale at Barry Island station

Barry Island Station is hosting the next Toy and Train sale on Sunday, August 3, between 10.30am and 3pm.

It is the only event of this type at the venue in 2014, although plans are in hand for next year, owing to the popularity of the show, which is held within the buildings and on the platforms, under the large canopy.

In the meantime, the sister event, Cardiff Toy and Train Sale, will be taking place at Penarth Leisure Centre on a three-monthly basis (the next show there is on Saturday, October 11) with another show at Barry Leisure Centre on Sunday, September 28.

Barry Island Station has proved a big hit with the public in recent years and the unique atmosphere helps to create a special day alongside all of the seaside attractions on offer.

The station boasts an excellent in-house cafe and the main line station is on the same site, so visitors can travel by rail from all over the area.

The Barry Tourist Railway will also be operating their own trains during the show.

Organiser Chris Dyer said: "Barry Island attracts a great range of traders from both sides of the Severn Bridge and a wonderful array of stock is always available from all the big names such as Dinky, Cori, Matchbox, EFE, Triang, Hornby, Lima, Wrenn, Bachmann, etc.

"In the current economic climate, prices have never been keener and it is an ideal time to build up collections at budget prices.

"Traders are also very keen to buy and to exchange, so do bring along your surplus items.

"We are very grateful to John Buxton and the railway for making their excellent facilities available to us, once per year."

Hercules does exactly what it says on the tin!

WHEN Dwayne 'The Rock' Johnson swapped the wrestling ring for the film studio 13 years ago, you wouldn't have expected much to come of it.

However, all those years on, Johnson is an established talent, a franchise headliner, and often the best thing in a film.

Having carved a niche as an action star, Johnson's latest role sees him take on the character of Hercules in the unsurprisingly titled Hercules. Having battled the historic 12 labours, Hercules is now a mercenary for hire, along with a small band of soldiers. When Lord Cotys (John Hurt) tasks him to defeat a warlord whose ambitions are threatening his kingdom, Hercules must step back onto the battlefield to face his most dangerous challenge yet...

There is a mathematical equation (albeit unconfirmed by the intelligentsia) that suggests the presence of Dwayne Johnson in a film can improve the quality of said film by around 20 per cent. This equation comes into play again here as Hercules is a slice of undemanding entertainment that benefits from the star in the title role, dragging what could have been a run-of-the-mill 21st century sword 'n' sandals into something reasonably entertaining.

If you're looking for depth then you'll be disappointed (the closest it gets is the mysterious fate of Hercules' family which most seasoned filmgoers will clue into within five minutes), but there's enough decent spectacle – and that man Johnson – to carry the film through its running time.

Johnson has proved that he can lift moribund efforts like Gladiator, Retaliation and Pain and Gain, and his performance here, while not his best by a long stretch, does allow the film a greater degree of forgiveness than it would otherwise receive.

With films like Immortals and Clash of the Titans riffing on similar subject matter (and being wholly terrible), Johnson's turn proves the difference: his charisma and likeability making Hercules an enjoyable character to spend time with.

Ridiculously muscly, his is a performance more of physical power than acting subtlety but Johnson hits the mark – even if the script makes his character slightly dour.

There is joy to be found from the supporting cast, again delivering pleasing if slight turns, the likes of Rufus Sewell, Ian McShane (the best thing here) and John Hurt chewing scenery like they haven't been fed in months. It's the sort of performances films like this thrive on, and the quality of the cast around Johnson, and the gravitas they offer, again make it a slightly more appealing offering.

Hercules has been something of a pet project for director Brett Ratner, not that you would know from his direction. It takes its cue primarily from John Milius' Conan, but also the many films within this genre, and while it looks grimly stylish, yet again Ratner fails to impress anything of his own personality upon the film.

He's a director who can approximate the styles of others, but has never really established a style of his own, and while this is a criticism, his work here, much like the film itself, is decent.

The story moves in a predictable arc, despite taking a clever attitude towards the 12 labours Hercules had to endure (or did he?) which is pleasing to see; but this aside, there isn't much that comes unexpectedly, and come a climax that plods rather than soars, you're about ready to wrap things up rather than want more.

However, Hercules is a surprisingly decent film that makes no bones about trying to do anything more than entertain and deliver some degree of spectacle. That it does this job leaves a slightly more pleasant taste in the mouth than expected, even if it won't linger in the brain afterwards.

VERDICT: A surprisingly entertaining, testosterone-fuelled blockbuster, Hercules benefits from the presence of Dwayne Johnson and in knowing that it's there to entertain and nothing more. Solid and undemanding, it does what it sets out to do and nothing more.

SEE THIS IF YOU LIKED: Gladiator (2000), 300 (2006).

Completion date nears for project that will bring life back to Island

I WOULD like to start this month by wishing everyone a 'Happy, Sunny, School Holiday'; we have certainly been blessed with extremely good weather and I hope it lasts (or have I spoken too soon?)

I know that some of us have to work while it is so glorious, but I hope that as many people as possible are taking the opportunity to enjoy it. I know I have been unable to enjoy as much of the weather as I would like – but recently some of my cabinet colleagues and I had the opportunity of getting out to Barry Island to see what has been achieved by the council in improving the area in general.

We were pleased to see the newly refurbished artwork along the Causeway and then took the opportunity of walking along the new footpath on Friars Point, past Friars Point House and to the Old Harbour.

READER'S LETTER

IT is all very well in the aftermath of the Malaysian aircraft disaster, for Western politicians to call for sanctions and other punitive measures against the Russian Federation, but why no similar calls as a result of the Israeli actions in Gaza, where the death toll has already substantially exceeded that in the Ukraine?

If David Cameron and Co are genuinely outraged at the loss of 298 lives over the Ukraine, then let's hear the same condemnation of the lives lost, and still being lost, in the Gaza strip.

Christopher Short,
Barry.

THE GEM SAYS...

The human tragedy of this costly war of attrition in the Middle East is that lives are being lost on both sides, and for this, as always, adversaries must share the responsibility.

The reality is that a lasting peace can surely only come through negotiation – if and when both sides finally decide to commit to it.

This used to be a dirt path, but now it's properly laid, thanks to Barry Regeneration funding, so now everyone can use it in all weathers and accessibility has improved.

Even in the short time we were there, at least two people with disabilities and their carer/family members used it, which could not have happened previously. This simple scheme has had a massive impact on people's enjoyment of the area.

At the same time, we took the opportunity of looking at other improvements made on the promenade with new hand rails on the promenade gardens steps and the refurbishment to the western shelter toilet blocks.

The old Tourist Information Centre (TIC) is being used by the Vale Council's tourism and events team and to complement that, we have asked for expressions of interest from anyone wanting to lease the vacant lower floor of the TIC building, and the old Lifeguards building on the promenade.

I look forward to the new tenants being in place as soon as possible, adding to the experience for our many visitors.

The Barry Island weekend extravaganzas, an initiative we introduced last year, have begun for the second summer season, beginning with the 'Isle of Fire'.

This was a great success and the fun continues throughout the season. I hope as many people as possible come along and enjoy themselves.

I have been on the Island for the last two weekends and the number of visitors is phenomenal.

Eastern Promenade

I WOULD like to make some comment about the Eastern Promenade project, which is much in the news. Although not yet completed, it will certainly bring life back to a part of the Island that had been semi-derelict, and it should be completed very soon.

In that regard, I am well aware of the derogatory and cynical remarks being made by opposition politicians, because this project has been delayed from its initial completion date.

However, it is easy to criticise but much more difficult to get things done, especially when unforeseen problems occur that extend the contract period and delay the finish date.

Perhaps it would be helpful to explain some of the facts and correct any false rumours:

To begin with, the project is not just about beach huts, although they are a part of the redevelopment. The beach huts are a very substantial construction of cement blocks covered in multi-coloured, wood-effect resin/plastic cladding.

These major engineering works include the relaying of new walkways down to the beach and up to Nell's Point and securing the embankments along the walkways – as well as providing a traversing climbing wall that spells out Ynys Y Barri/Barry Island and an amphitheatre – which is covered at the far end of the promenade.

But that is not all: the old 'Toy Factory' has been opened up to create a new toilet block and alongside on the promenade there will be a 'mist' water feature.

It is a very substantial project and not something that can be achieved without some unexpected difficulties and frustrating delays.

The scheme was initially delayed by the winter storms by some weeks, but that was not the main problem. The major issues were that the embankments behind the shelter and along the length of the promenade were less stable than initially assessed.

In order to ensure that the substantial concrete retaining walls, which have been cast on-site are safe, rock anchors had to be bored out to find solid rock to secure them into.

These rock anchors are actually steel rods several inches in diameter. However, in order to find solid rock to secure them into, they had to bore out holes 25 metres long (about 82 feet).

Therefore, 41 of these rock anchors had to be assembled, attached to the rock-face and then secured to the retaining walls to make them safe. That was an engineering feat in itself!

Perhaps it would be interesting to imagine how long these steel rods are – they are slightly longer than a standard two-carriage train that travels to Barry Island.

However, saying all that, I am still very frustrated and deeply disappointed at the delays to the project.

I recognise that the initial contract that was due to end in May had to reasonably be extended until July, due to the storms and the embankment issues.

It was still not completed by that date and as a result, daily penalty charges will now be due. In June and July, I again demanded a completion date and was given a final date of 11th August, which I very, very reluctantly agreed, but on the understanding that if it passed that date, the contractors had to stand up and take full responsibility.

I am hugely disappointed at these delays, but I can assure you that we are chasing the contractors on a daily basis.

Despite my annoyance, I am convinced that once the project is completed it will be a huge success and a lasting legacy.

It's very easy to complain and criticise a project. It's harder to take a decision to do something and make it happen. As the adage says, if you don't do anything then no one can complain.

As far as I am concerned I'd rather try to improve things, than sit back and do nothing. To my recollection, it is only when we are in control anything positive has happened on the Island.

I am sure that everyone will agree that this project was worth waiting for and look forward to more good news for the town in the coming weeks.

BIG FILL IS BACK IN BARRY!

PART two of the Big Fill campaign got under way again when contractors visited the Dyfan ward, in Barry.

The council's highways and maintenance team, alongside contractors, will be fixing potholes in the Illyd ward on August 9 and 10 and in the Cadoc ward on August 23 and 24.

Residents are being encouraged to report any potholes in their ward by calling 01446 700111, emailing bigfill@valeofglamorgan.gov.uk or using the interactive map on the Vale Council website.

Potholes will need to be reported on the Monday to Friday prior to the weekend the team will be in that ward. The Big Fill schedules can be found in the local press, on Twitter and Facebook, and on the Vale website.

Residents who are unsure of which ward they live in, can call the contact centre on 01446 700111.

Coun Rob Curtis said: "I'm really pleased to be able to launch part two of the Big Fill campaign. We've worked hard to tackle potholes across the Vale, and the Big Fill will go a long way to improve conditions of Vale roads.

On an average weekend, approximately 150 potholes are repaired in each ward. The original BIG Fill campaign saw crews fill over 3,400 extra potholes, using 320 tonnes of tarmac across all 23 Vale of Glamorgan wards.

Commemorating the centenary of the First World War WE WILL REMEMBER THEM

THE GATHERING STORM AND JULY CRISIS OF 1914

WHAT happened in July 1914? Was anyone responsible for causing the First World War?

Diplomacy in the late 19th and early 20th centuries created a divided Europe. France felt Germany would defeat it if there was war, and made a defensive alliance with Russia.

Britain remained independent but did hold discussions with France about providing support if war broke out.

Unfortunately, the Germans saw these agreements as attempts to surround them, forcing them to fight on two fronts.

Seeking protection, Germany became allied with Austria-Hungary – with Italy as a third, but unreliable partner. The situation was complicated by the decline of the Ottoman Empire which had allowed countries like Serbia and Bulgaria to become independent.

Serbia had expansionist ambitions to incorporate all Slavs in the Balkans which created tensions with the Austro-Hungarian Empire, which had a large Slavic minority population.

Assassination

THE trigger for the crisis was a visit by Archduke Franz Ferdinand, the heir to the Austro-Hungarian Empire, and his wife Sophie, to Sarajevo in Bosnia. On Sunday, June 28, 1914, as their motorcade drove along the Appel Quay to a reception in the town hall, a bomb was thrown at their car.

It missed, exploding under the following vehicle injuring some of the passengers. The drive continued, but after the reception, the royal couple decided to visit the wounded in hospital.

General Potiorek, who was in charge of the visit, failed to tell the driver of the changed route. The car took a wrong turning, Potiorek ordered the driver to stop and reverse back round the corner.

By pure chance, this was exactly where Gavrilo Princip, the leader of the conspiracy, was waiting, doubtless depressed at the failure of his plans. Seizing this amazing opportunity, he fired his automatic at a range of a few feet, hitting both Franz Ferdinand and Sophie.

As he bled to death, Franz Ferdinand's last words were: "Sophie, Sophie, don't die! Live for my children." But Sophie was already dead.

All the assassins were Bosnians, but they had got weapons and training from the Black Hand, a semi-secret terrorist organisation, led by Dragutin Dimitrijević the head of Serbian military intelligence.

Although the Serbian government was probably not involved, the Austro-Hungarian government saw the murder as the ideal excuse for war against Serbia.

In particular, Conrad von Hotzendorf, the head of the army, argued for war, both for political reasons and because a victor's laurels might persuade his mistress to leave her husband and marry him.

But Tsarist Russia saw itself as the protector of Serbia. In 1905, Russia had been heavily defeated by Japan but had been rebuilding its army and, while the Austrians thought they could defeat Serbia alone, they knew they could not take on Russia as well, so sought German support.

Kaiser Wilhelm II, the ruler of Germany, had been friendly with Franz Ferdinand, though the decision to give unconditional support for any action Austria decided to take against Serbia was not a personal one but made with the agreement of his ministers.

Germany's decision to support Austria (the blank cheque) reflected their fear of being isolated and surrounded by France and Russia, and their view that, as Russia was getting steadily stronger, if war was going to come, it was better to fight in 1914 than later.

With this support, on July 23, Austria-Hungary served an ultimatum on Serbia. It had a 48-hour time limit and made demands which Serbia would not be able to accept.

When the Russian foreign minister heard the terms he said: "It's a European war."

From intelligence and leaks, the French and Russians were aware that the Austrians were planning to move against Serbia.

President Poincaré happened to be on a state visit to Russia and made it clear to Tsar Nicholas's advisors that they could rely on French support against Austria. Why? France had no major interest in Serbia, but it had a very real interest in ensuring Russian support if there was a war with Germany.

by GAVIN DAVIES

Mobilisation

FOR Britain, the assassination and later developments all seemed very far away and, anyway, we had our own crisis over the Irish Home Rule Bill.

Objections from Protestant Ulster had created the possibility of civil war in Ireland, which could even have resulted in parts of the British Army refusing to obey the government.

Events now moved quickly. On July 25, Serbia rejected the Austrian ultimatum and mobilised its army. The French started to prepare for mobilisation, Austria rejected a Russian appeal to extend the deadline and everyone rejected a British proposal for mediation.

On July 28, Austria declared war on Serbia.

On July 29, the Austrians actually bombarded Belgrade. In Russia, the Tsar ordered parts of the army to mobilise against Austria. He was told this was impossible as no plans existed for partial mobilisation.

The following day, the Tsar agreed to full mobilisation commencing on July 31. This threatened Germany, who had a common frontier with Poland, then part of Russia. The Germans started to prepare to mobilise.

This was serious. For Russia, Austria and Serbia mobilisation did not necessarily mean war, but Germany's plans for war were for an automatic progression from mobilisation to the concentration of its armies and to surprise attacks on Luxembourg and the Belgian fortress of Liège. The clock was ticking...

On July 31, Austria ordered mobilisation. Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, asked both France and Germany if they would respect Belgian neutrality in the event of war. The French agreed. The Germans did not reply.

The next day, Germany and France started full mobilisation and Germany declared war on Russia. On August 2, Germany served an ultimatum on Belgium demanding free passage for German troops and made vague promises of compensation at French expense when the war was won.

On August 3, Germany declared war on France and, when the Belgians rejected German demands, attacked Liège.

On August 4, Britain demanded that the Germans withdraw from Belgium and, when they did not, declared war on Germany at 11pm British (midnight German) time.

The World War had started.

Then on August 6, Austria declared war on Russia and, finally, at the end of August, Japan declared war on Germany and Austria-Hungary. Now the whole world was involved.

WHO WAS TO BLAME?

WHO caused the war? It is not clear that Germany actually caused the war although their 'blank cheque' to Austria could be said to have allowed it to happen.

Certainly France's fear of facing Germany without Russian support, and Germany's fear of being isolated if Austria did not support them against France and Russia could also be said to have been triggers.

Perhaps the real problem was that none of the politicians or soldiers realised the nature of the war which was to come, and were prepared to fight rather than give up their national interests.

Should they be blamed for their lack of foresight? I leave it to you to decide.

Research on Dinas Powys men who fell

TO mark the 100th anniversary of the start of the First World War on August 4, 1914, research has been undertaken to discover more about the 36 local men named on the memorial in Dinas Powys, who sacrificed their lives in the war.

A 50-page colour booklet has been produced, showing the results of the research – where the men lived, their regiments, where they fought, and where they died and are buried, or remembered.

The oldest was aged 52 and the youngest just 14 years old.

Two more men have been identified whose names were omitted from the memorial, and the local branch of the Royal British Legion has agreed with the Community Council that their names be added.

The booklet is currently on sale at post offices and other shops in Dinas Powys, priced £4.99.

In addition, the British Legion is organising a ceremony at the memorial on the Twyn at 10.45am on Monday, August 4 to mark the occasion, when the names and details of the 38 men who gave their lives will be read out.

On the afternoon of August 4, at 1.30pm, a presentation will be made in Lee Hall, Dinas Powys, using pictures and music to tell the stories of the men from Dinas Powys and Michaelston who went to war in 1914-18 and who did not come home.

LAST LETTER HOME...

A GEM reader would like to share the final letter of Corporal Frank Burke, 10th Battalion, South Wales Borderers, sent to his elder brother Charles on October 16, 1918.

The letter belongs to Dave Walsh of Cardiff, who explains: "Frank was my grandmother's brother and, as a child, I saw the original, but children don't always understand."

"I do hope this poignant memory may be shared with others."

Frank wrote:
"We've just had a turn in the front line and I'm caked with mud from head to foot but I feel as fit as a fiddle. It seems to me that they're anxious to decorate somebody in this Batt: as I've just been recommended again, that making it twice in eight days. The first do was worth something as I did a bit of good work when we tackled Fritz on the eighth... the second do was nothing more than a bit of patrol work, which is my hobby.

"You'd laugh (if) you could see me sometimes walking by night in no-man's-land with a big Ger pistol in my fist, looking for anything I can find."

"I find that the neutral ground between the lines is a fine place to work and I've formed the habit of placing a junior in charge and finding all I can on my own..."

"Well, dear brother of mine, whether I survive or not, I'm glad to think that you'll never have reason to be ashamed of me and I don't want you to be sorry if it should happen if I go West before the war ends. I've had a good time, proved myself to my own satisfaction and settled with the Boche for a good few things. In that do on the morning of the 8th I squared matters for a good many things and, although I took 23 Gers off my own bat, I was called a bloody murderer by one of my own men."

"Of course he only called it half in fun but it will give you some idea how I carried on..."

"Whatever Fritz does now, he can never get his own back from me and if I pass out, I go happily, for my work is done and my oath is kept. Don't get grieved if I get knocked out. I've lived my 'crowded hour' and you can remember me, if not with pride, at least without shame or regret."

Frank was killed the following day.
This item was contributed by Jo Barratt of Cowbridge, great-niece of Cpl Frank Burke.

Commemorating the centenary of the First World War WE WILL REMEMBER THEM

PENARTH PUPILS' RESEARCH IS PART OF NEW WELSH APP...

FOUR LOCAL MEN WHO LOST THEIR LIVES DURING THE GREAT WAR

by Jack DeClaire,
Callum Smith,
Abigail Hallum
and Josie

Vincent-Newson.

AS part of the preparation for the 'Wales at War' App being developed with the Welsh Government, Dr Jonathan Hicks, headteacher of St Cyres School in Penarth, set four of his pupils the challenge of discovering the stories behind four local casualties in the Great War, one from each branch of the Services.

Here are the results of their research...

Ernest Denman was the third mate aboard the SS Narragansett, a 9,196 gross ton tanker with her engines amidships.

She was built by Scott's Shipbuilding and Engineering Co of Glasgow/Greenock, in 1903 for the Anglo-American Oil Co, and was the largest and fastest (11 knots) tanker afloat at the time.

On May 7, 1915, she was attacked by a submarine south of Ireland, but the torpedo missed. However, she sank with the loss of all hands (the captain plus 45 crew) on March 16, 1917 when she was hit by a German torpedo.

The vessel was sunk by German u-boat U-44, commanded by Paul Wagenfuhr, about 400 miles west of the Scilly Islands.

The Narragansett's final voyage was from New York to London, carrying a cargo of lubricating oil. On a previous occasion, Wagenfuhr's u-boat had sunk a British vessel, ordered the surviving crew onto the deck of his submarine and instructed his crew to destroy the lifeboats. After two miles' sailing he then submerged, drowning most of the helpless sailors.

Ernest was the son of Emily Denman of 32 Grove Place and had been born in Penarth. He was 23 and is commemorated on the Tower Hill Memorial in London.

On August 2, 1917, the U-44 was rammed by HMS Oracle off southern Norway with the loss of all hands.

Ordinary Signalman Charles Kirby was killed in May 1916, aged 18, at the Battle of Jutland – the major engagement between the British Grand Fleet and the German High Seas Fleet off the coast of Denmark.

The son of Miriam Kirby, of 11, Amherst Crescent, Barry, and the late Edward Hely Kirby, he was killed aboard HMS Defence, a 14,300 ton cruiser which was hit by shells fired by the German flagship Friedrich der Grosse as she sped in to attack the damaged German light cruiser Wiesbaden.

Her forward magazines detonated and she disappeared in a column of smoke taking 903 men with her, including Rear Admiral Sir Robert Arbuthnot, leaving behind nothing but bits of floating wreckage. Charles Kirby was just 18 years old. He is remembered on the Barry Island School Memorial.

Second Lieutenant Albert Payne, Royal Flying Corps, the son of Mr and Mrs G Payne, 34, Travis Street, Barry Dock, met with a fatal accident on Sunday, January 13 when making a trial flight from Hendon (where he was stationed) to Ipswich. The machine dived downwards and caught fire.

The deceased young officer enlisted in Canada, where he had been for some years. He went to France two years before, but was wounded and discharged, and stationed at the head offices of the Canadian Government in London, after which he joined the RFC.

Lt Payne was educated at Holton Road Council School, Barry Dock. He had a brother, Sgt WJ Payne in the Army Service Corps, and two brothers-in-law serving, each of whom had been mentioned in dispatches and granted the Meritorious Service Medal.

The full story of the accident was told at the inquest at Hendon on the body of the late Lt Payne and on Francis Harry Varney Vise, (22), the pilot, who was making the flight with Lt Payne.

Captain Sevinbright said that Vise was an experienced pilot, although he was flying a machine that he had never flown before. He had, however, flown one which was very similar, and the slight differences were pointed out to him before the flight.

ABOVE: Ernest Denman served aboard the SS Narragansett.

Witnesses learnt that the two men reached an altitude of 1,500 ft and then descended to about around 1,000 ft. He believed that the machine stalled on the turn. The climatic conditions were not against flying.

Captain Clear of the Manchester Regiment, attached to the School of Instruction, said that he saw most of the flight.

The machine was taken off the ground steeply and when 100 ft up it made a turn and flew at a height of 800ft. It then made a left hand turn, got into a spin and fell. The petrol tank burst and caught alight through the machine striking the ground and not during the course of descent. He could not account for the accident. It was stated that the engine was examined before the machine left the ground and was perfectly satisfactory.

On January 25, Albert Payne's funeral took place at Barry Cemetery, the Rev J Mydyr Evans, Ty-newydd Road, Congregational Church, officiating.

The funeral was attended by a large number of officers and men of the Royal Flying Corps stationed at Hendon and the body was borne to the grave on a gun carriage covered with floral wreaths, and the solemn strains of the 'Dead March' in 'Saul', played by the Regimental Band.

The body had been conveyed from Hendon to the home of the deceased's parents at Travis Street, Barry Dock. He was interred with full military honours and the lengthy cortege as it passed through the streets on its way to the local cemetery was the object of profound sympathy and respect, and many were affected at the knowledge of so sad an end to such a gallant soldier.

Eight officers and about 40 men from the Lancashire Fusiliers and about 50 officers and men from the RFC attended, and the local band played the dead march during the progress of the cortege to the cemetery.

The body was conveyed on a carriage and covered by the Union Jack and a wealth of handsome floral tributes from comrades and friends. Among the numerous wreaths was one from the officers of the School of Instruction, Hendon.

Samuel George Pearce is one of two Penarthians to have won the Victoria Cross. He was born on July 16, 1897 at Penarth. In 1911 his family moved to Victoria in Australia. He joined the Australian Army in July 1915, aged 18, and served at Gallipoli, the Battle of the Somme and at Passchendaele.

Pearce had a chequered military career, being court-martialled and reduced to the ranks. He went absent without leave on several occasions, was wounded on the Somme and yet, as part of the 1st Machine Gun Battalion of the Australian Imperial Force he won the Military Medal during the fighting around Passchendaele (the Third Battle of Ypres).

He was discharged from the army in July 1919 but joined the 45th Battalion of the Royal Fusiliers who were then ordered to Russia. The North Russian Relief Force had been formed to protect allied supplies which were being sent to the White Russian forces then engaged in a struggle against the Russian Revolutionaries of the Red Army.

On August 29, 1919, north of the village of Emtsa, a village on the Archangel to Vologda railway line, he cut his way through enemy barbed wire under very heavy rifle and machine gun fire. He thus cleared a way for the troops to enter an enemy battery position.

Seeing that a blockhouse was holding up the advance, Pearce charged the blockhouse single-handed and killed the occupants with grenades. He was killed a few minutes later and is now buried in the Obozerskaya Burial Ground. He is also commemorated on a special memorial in Archangel Allied Cemetery.

GEM commemoration Part Two: next week

THE GEM would like to thank the people who contributed pieces to our commemoration of the First World War. Next week we will carry more contributions from the Vale and Bridgend county areas.

Commemorating the centenary of the First World War WE WILL REMEMBER THEM

A First World War Vale connection to Australia

VIGNACOURT British Cemetery at Amiens, the Somme, northern France, has a poignant Barry-Australia link and a visit to the World War One cemetery in 2012 provided Barry Male Voice choristers with a stark reminder of the horror, waste and sadness of the war.

Chorister John Shewring, now living in Dinas Powys and formerly of 9 George Street, Barry Dock, was to be the first family member to visit the grave of his great uncle, Lance Corporal James Leay, who was killed in action aged 23 years in one of the last battles of World War One.

James, a sailor and stepson of Arthur and Ada Annie Cutler of 11 George Street, Barry Dock, served in France with the 17th Battalion of the Australian Infantry after enlisting at the agricultural ground, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia in 1915.

His address recorded upon enlistment was '11 George Street, Barry Dock, Glamorganshire, England'. His pay was five shillings a day. The 17th battalion was involved in desperate fighting in the defence of Amiens, which eventually stopped a last, determined attempt by the Germans to break through Allied lines.

James was wounded by a shell on August 9 and died of his wounds on August 17, 1918, at the 20th casualty clearing station, less than three months before the war ended.

The vital role of the Australian forces is reflected in the casualty list; of the 524 casualties buried in Vignacourt British cemetery, a total of 424 headstones are Australian.

James Leay's name is commemorated on the roll of honour at the Australian war memorial, situated in the capital city of Australia, Canberra and also on the roll of honour in the Memorial Hall Barry.

Vignacourt British cemetery is unique in that it contains a statue of a French soldier, on the base of which are engraved the words: 'Frères d'armes de l'Armée Britannique, tombés au Champ d'Honneur, dormez en paix, Nous veillons sur vous' - Brothers in arms of the British Army, fallen on the field of honour, sleep in peace, We are watching over you.'

Cowbridge Museum commemoration

COWBRIDGE Museum will commemorate the First World War with a display of World War One items and memories on September 5-6. Entry is free.

The display will contain a small section about the Cowbridge based Haywood family who had 11 adult children on active service, and other items will relate specifically to Cowbridge and more generally to the UK.

Taking its title 'Keep the Home Fires Burning', from the popular song by Cardiff-born Ivor Novello, it will look at home life "while the lads are far from home."

Bridgend tribute to Great War heroes

New mosaics to mark the centenary of the First World War have been installed in Aberkenfig, thanks to a Newcastle Higher Community Council project involving three local primary schools.

A NEW tribute to the sacrifices made by Bridgend County Borough's war heroes has been unveiled in Aberkenfig.

Three colourful mosaics designed by local schoolchildren, have been installed in the village square, to mark the centenary of the First World War.

In a project sponsored by Newcastle Higher Community Council, the children from Tondy Primary School, St Roberts Catholic Primary School and Penyfael CIW Primary School, came up with the designs after they learned about the First World War in their classrooms.

Artist Justine Stroud, of Primary Colours, then created the mosaics and they now stand proudly in the square.

Coun Derek Baker from Newcastle Higher Community Council said: "We are very pleased that this project came to fruition, as it is something that we have been passionate about and worked on over many years.

"The children came up with excellent ideas for the mosaics and we hope that they will be enjoyed by the local community. The mosaics will stand here for up to four years, after which they will be placed in their respective schools."

Coun Baker added: "This has been the Community Council's biggest project by far and we are already looking forward to 2018, when we will be producing further mosaics to mark the centenary of the end of the First World War."

Bridgend County Borough's Mayor Gary Thomas and Janice Gregory, AM for Ogmore, were both present for the official unveiling of the mosaics, and Coun Huw David, Bridgend County Borough Council's cabinet member for children and young people, said: "In this year more than any other it is vital for us to teach our young people about the past and commemorate the contribution of our Armed Forces during the First World War.

"Children from three local primary schools have spent a lot of time researching the war and their wonderful designs provide a fitting tribute.

"I'm sure that the children will all be extremely proud of their involvement when they look back on what they have produced in the years to come."

St Brides Major Remembers

A WORLD War One commemoration will be held on Monday, August 4, at the War Memorial in St Brides Major, to commemorate the fallen of St Brides Major, Southerndown, and Ogmore-by-Sea.

It will start at 7pm, with a service being led by the Venerable Philip Morris and accompanied by the Ogmore Silver Band.

Following the service, the band will be playing contemporary tunes, and teas and coffees will be served in the church hall at St Brides. All are welcome.

Memorial gates honour the heroes of both world wars

THERE is very little recorded evidence on the Sea View Memorial Gates at Llantwit Major; however, looking back at old parish council minutes and talking to local residents, it is understood the gates were originally made after the Second World War, to remember those who lost their lives in both World Wars.

At the end of World War Two, many residents of Llantwit Major gave a shilling toward the refurbishment of the War Memorial Cross.

On completion of the refurbishment, there was money left over, so it was decided to have the memorial gates made. The gates were made by RAF St Athan.

On their completion, the council could not decide where to put the gates, so they remained in one of the council buildings for many years! In October 1977, Sea View Park was dedicated to Llantwit Major by George Wimpey and Co Ltd.

The land was transferred to Llantwit Major Town Council, under the condition that it be kept as a public open space.

It was then decided the gates should be installed at the entrance to the Sea View Park from Colhugh Street.

This year, to commemorate the centenary of World War One, the town council had the gates repaired, galvanised and repainted to mark this special event.

Representatives from RAF St Athan, Royal

British Legion, the Town Mayor and a local councillor attended to mark the completion of this project and to remember those who lost their lives in both World Wars.

ST PAUL'S CHURCH TO HONOUR ITS HEROES

THIRTY-THREE members of the Barry Church of St Paul's lost their lives on active service in the First World War and a number of others who served in the armed forces, survived the conflict.

The names of all those who fell are recorded in St Paul's War Memorial porch and St Paul's Rector Robert Parrish is inviting relatives of those who lost their lives to write to him with any family memories of these heroes from one hundred years ago.

Father Robert hopes family representatives will be able to attend a special memorial service at St Paul's on Remembrance Sunday, November 9 (at 10am).

One member of St Paul's who returned home from service in World War One was Albert Sylvester, a member of the family who ran a well-known decorating business in Barry.

Today, nephews Terry, David and Donald still run the Silver Star Decorating and DIY Centre on Barry Docks. They have played prominent roles in Sully Centurions Cricket Club and the preservation and operation of the pleasure steamers Waverley and Balmoral.

Albert Sylvester was a choir boy and scout master at St Paul's. He was gassed in the trenches and awarded the Military Medal 'For Bravery in the Field'. Presented with the MM at his former school in High Street in June 1918, Mr Sylvester, in responding to Mr G Wareham, chairman of Barry Urban District Council, said he hoped that the children of High Street School would never have to go and do the same.

Albert died in Cheltenham in his early 60s having suffered for much of his life from the effects of poison gas.

These are the names recorded on the Roll of Honour of the members of St Paul's Church, Barry, who lost their lives in World War One:

Harry Butler, Frederick Burton, Sidney George Beddingfield, Harry Churchill, Maurice Cater, Harold Chamen, John Davies, Percy Edwards, David Charles Grant, James Hutton, Roger Heath, Oswald Hulín, Claude Harding, Paget George Irvine, Christopher Kilby, Harry Jarret Littlehales, William May, Herbert May, Harold Marsh, John Percival Marshall, Arthur Nash, Ernest Phillips, Frederick Bush Parker, Ivor Prince, Cyril Gilmore Stevens, William Smith, Francis Spencer, John Streeter, Fred Streeter, Thomas Davies Williams, Harry Weaver, Victor Wraithman, Eric Whitehouse.

• Surviving relatives are invited to write to Father Robert Parrish, Rector of St Paul's and Merthyr Dyfan Churches at 10, Buttrills Road, Barry, and to the Editor of The GEM, at the address given on page 2 of this week's issue.

ST AUGUSTINE'S, PENARTH LEADS COMMEMORATION

FLASHBACK; Armed forces attend the first Dedication.

The newly restored Roll of Honour.

ON August 4, 1914, one of the most horrific wars of all time began.

In one way or another, World War One affected every community across Britain. In Penarth, over 300 men lost their lives, many were injured and countless families were devastated by the death or injury of a close relative.

Organisations across the town are organising different events to recall the sacrifices made by so many.

Some are very personal, others are bringing to mind specific aspects of the war, but the Service of Commemoration on Sunday, August 3 at St Augustine's Church is an event at which the whole community can come together for a joint act of remembrance.

The service starts at 10.30am and will be attended by the Lord Lieutenant of South Glamorgan, Dr Peter Beck, Stephen Doughty MP, the mayors of Penarth and the Vale, and representatives of the Armed Forces, the Police and many local voluntary organisations.

Most importantly, also present will be relatives and friends of those named on the recently-restored Roll of Honour, which is situated in St Augustine's and lists 207 men from Penarth who died in World War One.

The service will be led by Canon Roger Williams and the address given by the Archbishop of Wales, the Most Revd Barry Morgan. Richard James, chairman of the local branch of the British Legion, has been involved in the preparation for the service; a Legion member will carry the standard and another will play the Last Post.

During the service, the Roll of Honour will be re-dedicated. The Roll has been restored and enough money raised to ensure that the history of the Roll and those named on it will be recorded for perpetuity. The Friends of St Augustine's, who organised the restoration, received grants from the Heritage Lottery Fund and The War Memorial Trust.

Generous donations and fund raising events also added to the fund.

Jennifer Stewart, head of the Heritage Lottery Fund in Wales said: "In this, First World War Centenary year, HLF is supporting many community led projects that are helping us all to learn more about the heritage of the First World War and the impact that it had on our communities."

"I am delighted that we have been able to support this project in Penarth through our new small grants programme and ensure the Roll of Honour is restored."

The service of commemoration has been organised jointly by the parish, the Royal British Legion, and the Friends of St Augustine's.

All those involved very much hope that anyone wanting to pay their respects to those who died, and those who were injured, will come and join them on August 3, at 10.30am in St Augustine's.

Alexandra Park achieves 'Centenary Field' status

BROADCASTER Roy Noble and the Mayor of the Vale of Glamorgan, Coun Howard Hamilton recently unveiled Alexandra Park as an official 'Centenary Field'.

The opening, held on July 17, comes after the official launch of the Centenary Fields project by the Duke of Cambridge in Coventry.

The Centenary Fields project, led by the UK charity Fields in Trust in partnership with The Royal British Legion, aims to protect war memorial fields, parks and green spaces created in memory of those who lost their lives during World War One.

Ivor Morgan, chairman of Fields in Trust Cymru said: "Centenary Fields is a fitting and unique way of marking the sacrifices made by Servicemen and women 100 years ago in World War One."

"We are delighted that the Vale

Council is the first local authority in Wales to protect space as a Centenary Field and we call upon all other authorities in Wales to follow the Vale's lead and protect more spaces over the next four years to create this living legacy."

Coun Neil Moore said: "The council and cabinet fully support this initiative that recognises the ultimate sacrifice made by service personnel."

"It will also add to the protection of this valuable park in Penarth signifying the centenary of World War One. I was delighted to assist The Fields in Trust in creating this legacy for future generations."

In 1924, the Cenotaph, by Cardiff-born sculptor and medalist Sir William Goscombe John, was erected in memory of those who lost their lives in the First World War – and some years later, the Garden of Remembrance and topiary work were added.

'Extreme history' captured interest of students

Probus Club of Dinas Powys.

ON July 22, Mr Phil Carradice spoke to the club on the subject 'History – like your teacher never told you'.

Trained as a teacher, Phil realised that to teach children history, it had to be made interesting and told like a story.

He grew up in Pembroke Dock at a time when the radio was the focal point of the family.

Phil's favourite programme was 'Journey Into Space' and this started his interest in stories. He and his father had weekly competitions to see who could write the best poem, with a 10 shilling prize for the winner.

As his father was the sole judge, Phil never won, until one week when his father was so impressed with his poem that he gave Phil £1.

Phil never confessed that he had copied it from a Biggles book.

A teaching post took Phil to the assessment centre for Delinquent Children in Penarth.

The children had little interest in learning because of the way lessons were being taught.

So he began to start any lesson with a factual story, preferably fairly horrific if possible, to appeal to their natural instincts for that sort of thing, and then developed it into a history lesson.

For example, his account of the execution of the Duke of Monmouth in 1687 after his defeat at the Battle of Sedgemoor, when the axe-man needed six attempts to remove the duke's head.

Similarly, Marie Antoinette's lips were alleged to be moving for ten seconds after she lost her head.

Once the class realised that history was real and did actually happen, they took more interest in the lecture.

about the times leading up to these events.

As an introduction to the horrors of the Second World War, Phil would first give an account of the death of Reinhardt Heydrich, a brutal German officer who had become known as the 'Butcher of Prague' due to his treatment of the citizens.

British spies attempted an assassination but the bomb only exploded under Heydrich's car.

However, the horsehair stuffing from the car's upholstery penetrated his body so deeply that doctors could not save him.

Phil has always been keen to separate facts from fiction, although he acknowledges that the facts should never get in the way of a good story.

For example, King Harold was not killed by an arrow in the eye, this error is the result of a misunderstanding of the Bayeux tapestry.

He was pulled from his horse and hacked to death by the French knights who cut off his hands and feet and sent them to his mother.

Despite the fact that almost every account we read claims that Dylan Thomas was an alcoholic, he gave that impression because he liked being in pubs, playing to an audience.

It wasn't until he went to America that he began to drink heavily, probably due to depression.

His inquest found no evidence of liver damage or the like, the principal cause of death was connected to his asthmatic condition and the drugs administered by an American doctor.

Phil stressed the importance of studying history in the hope that the world would learn from its past mistakes although he doesn't see much evidence of that happening.

The vote of thanks was given by Marshall Anderson.

Live a life of adventure WITH MARIA LEIJERSTAM

DOUBLE world record holder Maria Leijerstam from the Vale, founder of the Burn Series of multisport events and qualified personal trainer, inspires you with her regular column on simple family sporting adventures in the beautiful countryside of south Wales.

Maria reveals how and where in your area you can combine sport and fitness into family fun.

Sowing the sporting seed!
THE Commonwealth Games in Glasgow is very much in the news this week and it looks like Wales is bringing home plenty of medals.

Welsh rhythmic gymnast Frankie Jones hit the high spot when she won Wales' first gold medal and three silver medals. Now that is inspirational!

Competing for Team Wales are 232 athletes, with athletics and aquatics commanding the largest entry, mainly because there is such a variety of activities within each of those sports.

Another interesting fact is that Team Wales included twins, siblings and husband and wife duos, which goes to prove that your chosen sport can also be a family affair.

Families are at the heart of the Mini Burn series which is a great way to encourage youngsters to have a go at a variety of activities with the great encouragement of dad or even grandad alongside.

The next Mini Burn event at Margam Park is on Saturday, October 11, and is open to all family members; the only qualifier is a sense of adventure! You can enter on line now.

There is nothing better than introducing children at a young age to as many sports as possible so they can find their own individual niche. They have wonderful flexible bodies ready to tackle anything, and making sport part of their day is not only brilliant for their health and development, but it also offers them a window to future personal achievements.

If they make it to a team, county or national level that is brilliant, but more important is that sport is woven into their lives early on, which guarantees a healthy life and lots of fun in the future.

You don't necessarily have to leave your back garden to introduce your children to the thrill of sport.

How about setting up a simple obstacle course?

Long jumps and high jumps only require some string and two garden chairs to tie to and for a good sprint set out plastic toys or bottles in a row for them to run in and out of.

Balls, hula hoops, skipping ropes, a plank to run along and even a large piece of tarpaulin for them to crawl under are everyday items that can be incorporated into an obstacle course.

Have fun in the sun, be safe and protect your skin. For more inspiration log onto www.burnseries.co.uk/.

Topstak scores hole in one at Senior Open

roasting on the Big Green Egg.

V A L E - b a s e d company Topstak wowed guests with a succulent BBQ cooked on the 'Big Green Egg' at a private function during Royal Porthcawl Golf Club's Senior Open Championships at the weekend.

Local chef Ffion Jones served pulled pork, cooked on the Big Green Egg for seven hours, followed by a main course of summer bean salad with orange and chive dressing, rocket and horseradish sauce topped with sliced locally sourced sirloin and skewered roasted baby potatoes.

"We were delighted to be able to supply the Big Green Egg Barbecue for this prestigious event," says Adam Pedersen, Topstak director. "The 'Egg' is a very versatile outdoor cooking system, and it is possible to create a wide range of meals, from grilled meats and vegetables, to slow-cooked meat and even to make pizzas."

Function organiser, Hugh Childs, an avid golfer and member of the Royal Porthcawl Golf Club, was delighted with the al fresco food cooked on the Big Green Egg: "We had 50 people for lunch on Saturday and 25 on Sunday, and the plaudits for the food were overwhelming."

Royal Porthcawl Golf Club's Senior Open Championships featured golfing legends Tom Watson and Colin Montgomerie.

Barry man takes up 20 challenges!

A VALE resident is taking on almost 20 sporting challenges across the UK – to raise money for Alzheimer's research at Cardiff University.

Jon Hussey (34), says the memory of his late grandmother, who had suffered from Alzheimer's for several years, was his personal motivation.

Recalling his grandmother's battle with the disease, Jon says: "We saw her deteriorate from a normal functioning adult to becoming almost like a child again. She lost her personality, her logic, and her ability to function."

"It was very painful to see her lose her sense of self. It is a very cruel disease."

He discovered the cutting-edge Alzheimer's research carried out at Cardiff University through his sister, who is an alumna of the institute.

"I chose Cardiff

University, as opposed to a more traditional charity, because I wanted my sponsorship to go into the research that may one day lead to halting, or even preventing, Alzheimer's. I also wanted it to go directly to those doing this invaluable work," Jon explained.

Jon, who lives in Barry, has already competed in 10 sporting challenges, including the 10k St David's Day Run, the Cardiff Bay Five Mile Race, and the Blenheim Palace Triathlon.

"The experience so far has been fantastic," says Jon. "I can honestly say I'm having the best year of my life. I feel like I'm doing something with meaning and purpose that may make a small contribution to a huge problem – Alzheimer's."

The worst is not yet over, with some of the UK's most strenuous sporting events coming his way in the latter half of the year, including Tough Mudder, the two mile Loch Lomond Swim, the Chepstow Stampede, and the Cardiff Half Marathon.

A disappointing weekend for Sully Centurions

Sully Centurions 1st XI entertained top-of-the-table Pontymister at Burnham Avenue and were well beaten.

The visitors batted first and were 160 for 7 with nine overs to go. Thanks to some big hitting late on in the innings, they finished on 241 for 8 after the 50 overs.

Salman (46) and Adnan Ghorri (65) did the bulk of the damage for Pontymister. The wickets were shared around among the Sully bowlers, with Nathan Cuddihy taking two.

In reply, Centurions started brightly with openers Tom Edwards (27) and Shae Ellis (12) getting the home side to 30 runs within the first 5 overs.

However, the only other Sully batsman to get into double figures was Owain Sullivan, who hit 11. A big collapse saw Centurions skittled out for just 88 in the 25th over.

Ghorri added to his fine batting performance by taking 3 for 12, with the best figures posted by Muhammed Asif, who finished on 4 for 15 off just six overs.

Seconds back to earth with a bump

After last week's big win, Centurions' 2nd XI came crashing down to earth with a bump when they were comprehensively beaten by a powerful Pontymister side.

After grabbing a couple of early wickets to leave Pontymister on 34 for 2, Sully came up against Sharratt (118) and Lancaster (70) who dispatched the visiting attack to all corners, as they shared a third wicket stand of 166. This gave the rest of the batsmen licence to hit out and although a total of nine wickets were lost, the home side still managed to post a huge total of 343 at the end of the 45 overs.

In spite of the daunting total, a special mention must be made of young Gethin Hicks, who managed to finish with figures of 2 for 28 in his first senior match.

The Centurions innings never really got into top gear as wickets fell regularly. Opener Dan Chaik hit 38 before being stumped with the score on 65 for 6.

Only Paul Harrison (19) and Emma Davies (17) managed to reach double figures, with the innings closing on 115 all out in the 37th over. Asif Ali (3 for 22) and Mian (3 for 10, including five maidens) were the pick of the bowlers for the victorious home side.

SAINTS SHOW FINE PRE-SEASON FORM

BARRY Saints kept up their 100 per cent pre-season record with a win over CSKA Sophia Gardens.

CSKA took an early lead after a defensive lapse, leaving the striker with a simple finish. The Saints hit back immediately with Darren Townsend placing an accurate drive into the bottom corner.

Saints were playing the better football and making numerous chances but conceded a carbon copy of the first goal, but gain the scores were levelled after a delicious corner was hit firmly home on the volley by Andrew Wyatt.

Saints landed a lethal blow with some tidy football finding Joey Matthews, who bent the ball in to the top corner from 25 yards.

Another swift move gave Townsend an opportunity to strike at goal. It was heading straight to the keeper, only for the ball to bobble between his legs!

Saints made changes for the second half and were immediately punished as poor communication resulted in an easy goal for the opposition. David Evans restored the two goal advantage after a sweetly-struck shot from 25 yards into the bottom corner. Townsend managed to complete his hat-trick after cutting in from the right and lobbing the keeper with ease from 30 yards.

Michael Evans finished the scoring for another victory, 7-3 and a good run out for the Saints.

Special thanks to FitM8 of Park Crescent, Barry for providing Barry Saints AFC with a match ball for the forthcoming season.

If anyone else is looking to support grassroots football, any contribution would be of great help. Please get in touch by email to glong147@yahoo.co.uk

'Handsome' wins for Cadoxton A bowlers

AFTER a couple of months of struggling to find enough players to field a full team, Cadoxton's A side has seen off two CML5 league opponents in fine style, winning both matches handsomely.

An earlier CML5 match against Barry Central on Saturday, July 19, saw Alex Turner skip a triple against a full rink skipped by Tom Caged, to complete the only Cadoxton success: R Cole, D Hammond, A Turner 20 - 13; S Clements, A Field, A Prince, A Carpenter 8 - 27; J Stacey, I Heppenstall, M Curtis 11 - 24; E Heppenstall, D Fanning, J Sugden 18 - 25. Totals: 38 - 102.

A game against Murch A, having been postponed twice was eventually played on Monday, July 21, resulting in a four-rink 102-55 shots victory for Cadoxton.

Last weekend, a visit to Rumney A on Saturday, July 26 saw the Cadoxton A-siders record another clear-cut victory: D Fanning, J Sugden, L Davies, D Tuck 19-20; A Carpenter, G Solomon, D Jefferies, R Harding 14-23; J Stacey, D Hammond, Craven, D Kuhnell 24-14; R Byrne, H Hellyar, M Curtis, J Jones 34-14. Totals: 91 - 71.

In both matches, lead newcomer Rob Byrne and vice-captain Dennis Hammond played significant parts, ably supported by a prudent mix of experienced and newish recruits.

A-side captain David Fanning said that: "Every so often it's good to remind people that Cadoxton were playing top-notch bowls while other Barry and nearby clubs were just twinkles in their founders' parents' eyes."

The club side achieved some significant results in its recent Munro Cup matches.

On Wednesday, July 16, Barry Plastics were the visitors to Cadoxton for this fixture which resulted in two winning rinks each with the visitors taking the aggregate.

John Jones skipped the most successful rink for Cadoxton against Lee Romans' rink.

The first half of the game was controlled by the home rink. Starting with a three and a four, the score reached 16-3 with just one losing end.

A 'mini' recovery reduced the advantage by nine shots during the next four ends, but a big finish, including two threes, completed a considerable success.

Gordon Davies was the other successful skip against Peter Oxenham, but this was a much tighter affair.

The scores were tied on three occasions and after 14 ends were completed the home side had a slender two-shot advantage which was boosted on the next with a five; however shots were conceded during the closing ends to reduce the margin to just one.

Derek Brook only managed four winning ends against experienced skip Keith Romans.

After opening with a four against, Howard Craven's rink won three singles and conceded four against opposing skip Graham Brown.

The remaining 10 ends brought further success for the visitors, with six winning ends, including three threes, to win substantially:

R Byrne, D Hammond, I Robertson, H Craven 10 - 22; S Clements, G Solomon, S Clarke, D Brook 6 - 27; E Heppenstall, J Sugden, D Evans, G Davies, 17 - 16; J Stacey, P Swannick, D Jefferies, J Jones 25 - 12. Totals: 58 - 77.

The club side's Munro Cup home fixture on Wednesday, July 20 against Windsor Penarth was a close-run battle until the visitors broke away for an 81-41 shot win.

In a CML4 league match, at home to Penryheol A on July 19, the club side started badly, with all four rinks losing the opening exchanges.

Skipping for the side for the first time, Gordon Davies conceded a two and a three before recovering steadily to lead by the 13th end before running out the winner by three shots.

Kelvin Chedzgoz lost three shots on the opening end but responded with a six on the next before a run of three losing ends reduced the deficit to two, which was never recovered and eventually resulted in an 18-27 loss.

Howard Craven's rink dropped nine shots behind, pulling back with a fine five until two fours against near the end took away any hope of a victory.

Overall, by the 12th end the visitors were seven shots ahead and closed out the match 16 shots ahead: L Davies, S Clarke, D Brook, H Craven 13-25; P Swannick, R Harding, P Ellis, K Chedzgoz 18-27; R Byrne, D Evans, J Jones, D Kuhnell 23-21; G Solomon, I Robertson, D Jefferies, G Davies 21-18.

Totals: 75-91.

LEE TESTS HIMSELF

BARRY CHESS CLUB NEWS

LAST week saw the start of the 101st British Chess Championships.

This year it is the turn of Wales to host the event, which is taking place in Aberystwyth University. While there are a number of different competitions, the main event is the British Championship, which takes place over 11 rounds of play.

These games commence at 2.30pm each day with a possible playing time of seven hours.

The eventual winner will not only have to play exceptional chess but will need enormous amounts of stamina.

There are approximately 60 entrants, mainly from England, with Lee Davis from the Barry Chess Club also taking part. With his FIDE rating of 1978, Lee is ranked 53rd in the tournament.

All of Lee's opponents in the first six rounds were ranked well above him. In the first round, Lee had an excellent win over Joseph McPhillips, rated 2200. His next two opponents were an IM and an FM, so there was no disgrace in losing both of these games.

In round four Lee drew with FM Mike Waddington and in round five he earned another draw, this time against Oskar Hackner. Alas, in round six against his weakest opponent to date, although still giving away approximately 100 ranking points, he lost again.

So, after six rounds Lee had two points which placed him in 50th spot in the table.

After the seventh round there was a break in play to allow the players to recuperate before the final four rounds of matches this week.

The Barry Chess Club meets at 7.30pm each Monday at the West End Club, St Nicholas Road, Barry, CF62 6QY. The club is open to players of all standards; whether you are interested in playing competitive chess or just the occasional friendly games.

For more details, visit barrychessclub.yolasite.com.

Whitmore Bay carnival proves a huge success

THE weather was perfect for the early Sunday morning start, which saw over 150 nippers represented from 11 surf lifesaving clubs from across the south Wales coast, helping to make the second Whitmore Bay Carnival a great success.

In total there were 60 events during the day for the various age groups between 7 – 12 years.

The competition started with 'beach flags', which is highly competitive and action-packed and is used to practice sprinting and reflexes.

Then followed sprints and team relays.

A very popular sandhopper race for the club's younger 5 – 7 year-olds saw the future nippers get a taste of what being a volunteer lifeguard is all about.

The afternoon saw events move into the water with run, swim, run and rescue board events. The final fun event was a tug-of-war between each of the clubs – with Whitmore taking the Cup.

The overall winners were Rhosce, followed by Rest Bay, with Whitmore Bay coming third, closely followed by the team from Llantwit Major.

Well done to all the nippers who took part – the hours of practice, determination and teamwork shone through on the day. A huge thank you goes to all the coaches, parents and everyone who helped with the organisation and running of the day and to all the clubs for coming to take part. A great day was had by all.

Young Barry gymnasts make good progress

A TOTAL of 10 gymnasts represented Barry YMCA at the South Central Floor and Vault Championships, and all put in good performances.

The under-12 team of Tamzin Williams, Caitlin Meadows, Evie Wong, Bria Karim, Erin Gamble and Lara Watkins climbed onto the podium in the club category when they took second place.

There was individual success as well, when Lara placed second overall and also placed second on floor and on vault.

Lara Watkins was named as the third-highest scoring gymnast overall in Wales in the under-12 event. To celebrate the Commonwealth Games, there was a 'design a banner' competition at this event and Celyn Powell, Sophia Foscolo and Tamzin Williams won a prize for their banner.

Thank you to the coaches for their continued work at the club and well done to all the gymnasts who competed: Alana Stokes, Bria Karim, Celyn Powell, Chloe Gabb, Chloe Sullivan, Ellice Stockford, Evie Wong, Erin Gamble, Kelsey Cross, Lara Watkins, Laila-Jade Lang, Seren Mirza Davies, Sophia Foscolo, Tamzin Williams and Zoe Arnold.

In the 12+ club category, Chloe Sullivan, Zoe Arnold and Chloe Gabb all included new skills within the routines and performed them well. Chloe Gabb gained a fifth place ribbon on vault.

The following week, Barry gymnasts were competing at the Welsh Floor and Vault Team competition. Both the under-12 club team and over-12 club team received fourth place ribbons. There were no individual medals awarded, as this was a team event, however spot prizes were awarded.

In the over-12 category, Kelsey Cross gained an award for demonstrating a good vault, while Lara Watkins also gained an award for demonstrating good dynamics on her vault in the under-12 category.

Erin Gamble gained an award for 'floor' demonstrating good dancework and presence in the under-12 category, while Chloe Sullivan gained an award for demonstrating a very

Millwood bowlers three for three after good victories

ON another very warm and sunny day, Millwood travelled to Murch for a Division 3 game and came away with a fine 14-shot win, but most of all a 13-3 points winning advantage.

Every point is now to be keenly contested in the quest to avoid dropping down divisions when this season finishes.

In this game against Murch, at the fifth end, Millwood had a slender 21-18 shot advantage, but after 10 ends the shot lead had swung to Murch by 34-45, only for the lead to increase to Murch by 15 shots at 49-64.

Then, a fighting rally by Millwood saw the lead change again after the 21st end to finish up 86-72 for Millwood. What a fascinating game, with both sides not giving an inch, and fighting for every shot.

Thank you to Murch for a very close-fought game, though the final 14-shot difference does not really show how close the game really was.

BIG WIN AGAINST CENTRAL

This was a rather convincing win for Millwood by a massive 53 shots, but it was due surely to Central not being able to fulfill the requisite players for the four rinks.

It must be rather daunting to play games men short, but if Millwood were in the same position, they would not expect any leeway from the opposition. Well done to Central for making a game of it.

After the first four ends, Millwood had a lead of 11 shots at 18-7, and after nine ends it was 50-17.

Finally, after 18 ends, it was 97-44 in favour of Millwood. A maximum points score, with only a few games to go so every point counts.

A BUSY PERIOD FOR THE TOWN'S BOXING BROTHERS

BROTHERS Lee and Andrew Selby were welcomed to Jenner Park Stadium last week ahead of an intense summer of training for the pair of them.

British and Commonwealth featherweight champion Lee is set to face Joel Brunker in a World Title eliminator fight in October, and has been using Jenner Park's running track as part of his training regime.

His brother Andrew, who won two gold medals in the European Amateur Championships in 2011 and 2013, has been representing Wales in the Commonwealth Games in Glasgow.

Lee fought his way to the WBC International featherweight title in May, which earned him his spot in the upcoming final eliminator fight for the IBF featherweight title currently held by Evgeny Gradovich.

Lee and Andrew Selby with Cyn Gwyn John.

Coun Gwyn John, cabinet member for leisure and sports, was there to meet the brothers and wish them every success for the future.

GEM NOTE: At the Commonwealth Games, Andrew Selby made the headlines – but not in the way he wished.

Ranked number one in the world and a hot favourite, he lost in the first round to an 'unknown' Scot, 18-year-old Reece McFadden.

The young Scot impressed observers with his all-action style, and the fight was poised on a knife edge, at one round each, going into the third and final round.

Sadly, Selby's chances were ruined when his gumshield kept working loose, and he was penalised by the referee – effectively ending his chances of winning that last round.

Commentating on the radio, boxing legend Barry McGuigan said he had never seen a boxer have similar trouble with his gumshield and, speaking after the bout, a baffled Selby said he had fought with it for four years without a problem.

Young McFadden continued to impress, and at the time The GEM went to press, he had reached the semi-finals.

Curtis returns personal best

BARRY decathlete Curtis Matthews can consider his Commonwealth Games a real success.

Curtis (22) a former Barry Comprehensive School pupil achieved a personal best overall and finished 10th in the competition.

What will please him is that in the heat of competition he returned personal 'bests' in five of the 10 disciplines.

MUNRO CUP

There was another welcome win for Millwood in the latest round of the Munro Cup, with a 19-shot winning margin over Murch.

By winning three of the four rinks Millwood picked up a 12-2 points win, but having lost six games and won six, all Millwood can do is to try to keep in a winning vein.

Millwood were leading 20-17 shots after the first four ends, but Murch clawed back to be level after nine ends at 34-34. At the 13th end, Millwood had extended their lead to four at 54-50. L

It looked like a close game on the cards, but Millwood put the pressure on to win on the 18th end by the margin of 19 shots. What a relief for the winners!

The next Munro Cup game is home to Dinas Powis, then August 6 sees the final game of the Munro Cup away to Cadroxton.
